38-State Rail Walkout Likely to End Today

Troops Deployed as Demonstrating in Viet Nam Worsens

Buddhist Rioters, Carrying Spikes, Pummel Photographers

SAIGON (AP) — Three thousand demonstrators carrying sticks and steel spikes moved toward the center of Saigon tonight shouting "Americans go home" and kicking and punching western photographers.

Riot troops and police were reported deployed to stop them.

The demonstrators started milling around Buddhist headquarters about 9:30 p.m., then moved off down the road.

Ky a Target

The banner-waving demonstrators began slowly moving from the Buddhist Institute. The demonstration appeared to be stage-managed by a militant student group that organized a similar demonstration Thursday.

The Saigon march developed a few hours after some 10,000 demonstrators, including 2,000 uniformed soldiers, paraded through the streets of DaiNang with signs criticizing both Premier Nguyen Cao Ky's military regime and the United States.

Smaller daylight demonstrations were held here and in Hue.

A group of Boy Scouts at Da Nang carried a sign reading: "Down with the Americans' attempt of objecting to the forming of a Vietnamese National Assembly.

Other marchers included Buddhist monks and nuns and about 2,000 South Vietnamese soldiers, sailors and officers up to the rank of major.

In Saigon, medical students held a clamorous antigovernment meeting where speakers criticized the conduct of American soldiers in the city. In the old imperial capital of Hue, 50 miles north of Da Nang, 3,000 persons demonstrated for a return to civilian government through national elections. The demonstrations were similar to others held recently throughout the country.

Openly Hostile

All the demonstrations have been openly hostile to the central government headed by Premier Nguyen Cao Ky, and the anti-American overtones have become increasingly louder.

Thousands have taken part in the marches, but observers here and elsewhere have come up with no estimate as yet of the general support of the street rallies.

Many observers, however, agree that the demonstrations are directed from a central

U.S. Troops in Viet Nam Find Enemy Scarce

Leathernecks Hit Several Small Units of Viet Cong

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Two U.S. Marine divisions working out of Da Nang and Chu Lai broke up into numerous small units today in a new search for the elusive Viet Cong and reported that 581 various operations turned up only a handful of the enemy.

The Leathernecks conducted patrols, laid ambushes, set up listening posts, scout, sniper and search and destroy missions in the central coastal plains once bristling with bands of Viet Cong.

They killed eight Viet Cong, captured two and got two weapons. Eight sampans were sunk.

The experience of the Marines was duplicated by the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Airmobile, Division in a two-brigade search for a North Vietnamese regiment which put up a stiff fight in the Chu Phong mountains along the Cambodian border. But now the enemy regiment apparently has chosen to fade away.

Flash Flight

The only contact made today was a flash fight with a platoon. Associated Press photographer Rick Merron reported one company of the Air Cavalry ran into the platoon at 1 p.m. only about 100 yards from the spot where the troopers killed more than 100 of the enemy Wednesday. The firefight was brisk but brief. Nine Viet Cong were killed.

The 2nd Brigade of the 25th Infantry Division scouring 25 miles northwest of Saigon also failed to uncover any major Viet Cong units. But it had minor contact today when an enemy grenade attack was launched from ambush. The infantry retorted in kind, killing two Viet Cong and capturing a Chinese Communist carbine, four U.S. hand grenades and documents.

The infantry also counted two dead Viet Cong snipers during the day. One was shot from an armed helicopter. A tunnel complex yielded 400 tons of rice.

No Resistance

U.S. Marines landed on the southern coast of the special zone called Rung Sat and worked up to 18 miles south of Saigon. They encountered no resistance during the day but sent back word they had found an extensive system of campsites, bunkers, arms caches and supply dumps. Demolition squads blew them up.

This is the increasing pattern of the growing American ground power forcing the Viet Cong to quit their old sanctuaries and then rendering those havens inoperable.

Forty three missions, 34 of them by the Air Force and 9 by Navy carrier planes, were flown Friday over North Viet Nam's roads, bridges and supply lines. Poor weather restricted observation of bomb damage. Most of the drops were done by radar control through heavy haze and cloud cover.

The infant was reported to be in good condition, even though she was found naked in the grate-covered basin. Steam from pipes leading into the basin apparently provided enough warmth to keep her alive. (AP Wirephoto)

Union Asks Promise of No Reprisals

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 38-state railroad strike today entered its third day but resumption of service appeared near despite a fresh dispute over possible court action against the striking firemen's union.

Facing a federal court injunction, union president H. E. Gilbert offered to end the walkout if the eight railroads involved agree there will be no reprisals against the 8,000 strikers and that no damage suits or contempt of court actions will be pressed.

The railroads' chief negotiator, J. E. Wolfe, promptly replied: "Pending litigation will be progressed." He said the question of court action for damages will be up to each railroad president.

Later, Wolfe added he believed the strike will end today.

Agreement Certain

Gilbert said he was awaiting reports from vice presidents of his AFL-CIO Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, who were getting in touch with the individual railroads. "I am certain agreement will be reached," he said.

The strike was against these eight railroads: Union Pacific, the country's largest; the Missouri Pacific; Illinois Central; Seaboard Air Line; Central of Georgia; Grand Trunk Western, Pa.

The strike disrupted service on 43,000 miles of line and bit into the nation's economy. It caused some 100,000 persons to be thrown off their jobs or work a shorter day, resulted in traffic jams, tied up freight movements, stranded passengers and delayed the mails.

Firemen walked off their jobs at 12:01 a.m. Thursday on expiration of a 1963 federal arbitration board ruling that carriers could eliminate up to 90 per cent of their yard and freight firemen. Since then, about 18,000 firemen's jobs have been wiped out.

Apprentice Training

Gilbert said the strike was called because carriers would not negotiate on a union demand for an apprentice training program. Railroad officials said the walkout was an attempt to force carriers to bargain to restore the eliminated jobs.

U.S. Dist. Judge Alexander Holtzoff in Washington issued a temporary restraining order sought by the railroads Thursday, telling the firemen to go back to work because "we have a war, and also the entire public is affected, aside from the war."

Firemen then asked a U.S. Court of Appeals here to stay the order. In a 2-1 decision Friday, the higher court declined to interfere.

A few hours later, Gilbert met with Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz and then told a news conference the union would end the strike if the railroads would

Three Teen-Agers, Fleeing a 10-cent armed robbery were killed in this sports car Friday during a 120-mile per hour chase by police through the downtown area of Louisville. The stolen car smashed into steel poles and wreckage was scattered for nearly a block. The driver, also a teen-ager, escaped with cuts and bruises and was arrested on 12 counts. Police said the four took two nickels from two passing youths then fled in the car. (AP Wirephoto)

Knowles' Plan For Pollution Meeting Hit

Rolvaag, Leader of Conservation Group Urge Federal Support

MADISON (AP)— Gov. Warren P. Knowles' proposal for a water pollution conference involving Michigan, Minnesota and Wisconsin without federal participation was rejected Friday by Minnesota's governor.

Gov. Karl Rolvaag said Minnesota had no particular involvement with Lake Michigan. He said of Lake Superior, "It seems to me that it would be most desirable to include the interstate federal agencies in any conference that might be scheduled."

Knowles had turned down an earlier suggestion by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., that a tri-state meeting be called under the Federal Water Pollution Control Act. The Wisconsin governor then suggested a meeting of leaders from the three states as an alternative to a federal conference.

Rolvaag's rejection came in a letter at the same time as an official of the Wisconsin Resource Conservation Council asked Knowles to withdraw his opposition to a federal - state meeting.

More Opposition

John L. Franson of Fond du Lac, secretary of the council which speaks for a number of conservation groups, called Knowles' position "contrary to the obvious goals and the public interest in solving our pollution problems."

Nelson hailed Rolvaag's suggestion of a federal meeting on Lake Superior and said, "Action right now to stop this pollution can save this magnificent water."

The Governor's Committee on Water Resources had offered the alternative of an interstate meeting in order to keep control of pollution in state hands. The procedure would avoid issuance of federal pollution control orders that could be costly to communities and industries.

Another Site Out of Field For Atom Unit

LEMONT, Ill. (AP) — One of the sites considered for the $375 million atom smasher counted itself out of the running Friday.

The village of South Barrington, 30 miles northwest of Chicago, withdrew at a meeting of state officials, several university heads and atomic experts at the Argonne National Laboratory in Lemont.

But spokesmen for the village of Weston, the second Illinois site under consideration which is some 35 miles west of Chicago, asked that their town remain under consideration.

Despite pleas from Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner, Argonne director Albert B. Crewe, and university heads the South Barrington residents remained adamant and would not be persuaded to permit their village to remain under consideration.

"We have eliminated our chances by 50 per cent," said Kerner. "I'm not a gambler but I like to play the percentage. And it was a better percentage to have two of seven then one of six."

The other finalist sites are in Sacramento, Calif., Denver, Colo., Madison, Wis., and Brookhaven Laboratory at Upton, N.Y., and Ann Arbor, Mich.

May Take 50 Years

7 Protestant Units May be Merged

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of seven Protestant churches with a total of 25 million members have outlined plans to merge. But one bishop estimated complete unification may take at least 50 years.

The churches have been working on the plan for four years, it was disclosed Friday. Representatives of the seven denominations will meet in Dallas, Tex., May 2-5 to continue discussions.

The denominations are the Protestant Episcopal Church, the United Presbyterian Church, the Methodist Church, the International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ), Evangelical United Brethren Church, the United Church of Christ, and the African Methodist Episcopal Church.

Long-Range Nature

The long-range nature of the proposal was emphasized at a news conference here Friday by Episcopal Bishop Robert F. Gibson Jr. of Richmond, Va., chairman of the Consultation on Church Union, a special commission appointed to draft a unification plan. He was joined by the Rev. Dr. Eugene Carson Blake of San Francisco, a Presbyterian and general secretary-elect of the World Council of Churches.

They unveiled a 105-page document relating to unification and dealing with such theological subjects as sacraments and baptism. It will be discussed further at the Dallas meeting, the fifth such consultation on possible unity of the denominations.

"This is not a plan of union," Bishop Gibson said. "This has not been agreed upon by anybody. This is an outline of possible union."

He stressed that the proposal will be subject to continual discussion and revision and estimated it may take as long as 50 years to accomplish full unification.

Six Steps

The outlined proposal on church structure lists these six steps toward unification:

1. Consultation — already in progress.

2. Acceptance of the outline of a unity plan — which may or may not be achieved at the Dallas meeting.

3. Adoption of a plan of union.

4. Actual unification of members and clergy, with each denomination retaining a degree of sovereignty but surrendering some autonomy.

5. Writing and adoption of a constitution.

6. Achievement of the goal of a united Christianity, the step beyond unification of denominations.

Gibson said it might take 4 to 10 years between the second and third steps and a generation between the fourth and fifth.

Both Gibson and Blake, however, said there probably always would be differences in forms and rituals between the various denominations, especially regarding the sacraments and baptism.

Wilson May Make Shifts in Cabinet

Old Labor Party Warhorses May Make Room for Youth

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson was said to be considering possible Cabinet shifts today and observers predicted it was unlikely he would make any drastic changes.

There was speculation that he may retire some old Labor party warhorse to the House of Lords to make room for younger men. No names were mentioned.

There was also general agreement that Wilson's new team is unlikely to be made up of doctrinaire Socialists.

Wilson's landslide victory in the national election Thursday was due largely to votes from the younger middle class.

They are eager for radical social change but of a strictly liberal and progressive kind that can solve the nation's economic ills. Old type Socialist ideas have little appeal to them.

Whatever changes Wilson decides on will have to be made quickly. Parliament opens April 21 and ministers must get ready to draw up a legislative program.

This is expected to contain some tough measures. Chancellor of the Exchequer James Callaghan already is shaping an annual budget for presentation early in May.

It is expected to be the most rugged since World War II with prospects of high taxes and a variety of measures to galvanize industry and boost output.

It remains to be seen whether Wilson's new strength in Parliament will hamper his efforts to deal with the nation's economic malaise.

His previous slim grip on power was a restraining influence on the left wing of his party.

98-Seat Majority

For the past 17 months, Wilson has governed with a majority of only three votes in the 630-seat House of Commons. With only one electoral district stil to declare its result, the Labor party had a 98-seat majority in the new Parliament.

The party standings were: Labor 363 seats, a gain of 48; Conservatives 252, loss of 51; Liberals 12, gain of 2, Irish Republican-Labor 1, up 1. The non-voting speaker was re-elected.

The crushing Conservative defeat may bring on a struggle for the party leadership, now held by Edward Heath, but he was expected to hold off any challenge.

A number of top Tories crashed to defeat at the polls Thursday. Among them were Peter Thorneycroft, former defense minister, and Julian Amery, leader of the party's right wing.

An Audience Hearing Ronald Reagen, right, speak at a Claremont, Calif., political rally, burst into laughter as Reagan pointed to a long-haired individual and asked, "Young lady, what is your question?" Declaratory Judgment Expected Soon

Second 'Monkey Trial' Destined For Appeal—No Matter Who Wins

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Chancellor Murray Reed weighed evidence today for his declaratory judgment in the century's second "monkey trial."

Both sides said they would appeal, first to the State Supreme Court and then the U.S. Supreme Court, if necessary.

Reed gave opposing sides 40 days in which to file additional information and replies to briefs. There was no indication when he will announce his ruling.

The issue is whether Arkansas anti-evolution law is constitutional. It was adopted in a statewide election in 1928 and is one of three anti-evolution laws remaining in the nation. The others are in Tennessee and Mississippi.

Defense Blocked

Atty. Gen. Bruce Bennett's plans to defend the law by attacking the validity of the evolution theory were blocked.

Eugene Warren, attorney for the plaintiffs, objected almost 100 times during the 2½ hour trial to efforts by Bennett to introduce opinions about the validity of Charles Darwin's evolution theory and whether the anti-evolution law was reasonable.

"Are you going to stand there and object to everything?" Bennett asked at one point.

"I am as long as you keep asking improper questions," Warren said.

Warren contended that what anyone believed or didn't believe about the evolution theory or the anti-evolution law had nothing to do with whether the law was constitutional.

Feels a "Duty"

The plaintiff, Susan Epperson, 24, biology teacher at Little Rock Central High School, testified the Little Rock School Board had approved the textbook teachers selected, and that the textbook included a chapter dealing with the evolution theory.

She said she had not taught what was in the chapter, but intended to because the board had authorized the text and "I feel a duty to do it."

Mrs. Epperson's suit contends the law is unconstitutional because it infringes on freedom of speech, enters the sphere of religion, is a vague, indefinite, arbitrary and capricious statute, removes the right of school administrators to say what is to be taught in schools they are elected to supervise, and would force the state to provide equal protection under law for all school children if the evolution theory is dangerous.

Bennett argued that the only issue was whether the state, as an employer, could tell Mrs. Epperson, as an employe, what she could teach while on duty in the public schools.

More than 100 people crowded into the courtroom, designed to accommodate only 50 persons comfortably, and stood in the corridors to listen.

Don't Find Excuses, Just Make Play

BY ALFRED SHEINWOLD

One advantage of knowing something about mathematics is that you can make learned excuses for going down at an unbeatable contract. This does not improve your score but it does help to keep your partner quiet.

South took the ace of diamonds, drew trumps, and led out two high clubs. When the suit failed to break, South tried the heart finesse.

West won with the king of hearts and returned the ten of diamonds. South had to close a club trick at the end. Down one.

South complained that there was no justice. The chance of a normal club break was better than 2 to 1, and with the additional chance of a heart finesse the odds had been more than 5 to 1 in his favor.

No Complaint

South had no right to complain about justice. The slam was unbeatable if he played the hand correctly.

After taking the ace of diamonds, South should lead a trump to dummy to ruff a diamond and should lead another trump to dummy to ruff the queen of diamonds. South next draws the last trump.

Declarer then leads a club to the king, cashes the ace of hearts and gives up a heart, not caring which opponent wins the trick.

West returns a red card, dummy ruffs, and South discards a club. If East held the king of hearts he would return the ten of clubs. South would let this ride around to the queen, discovering the bad break. He would then be in position to return a club for a finesse through East.

Your Problems

Parents Neglected Discipline; Woman Suffers Mental Ills

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'd like to say a word to the mother of the four-year-old child who refuses to sleep in her own bed and screams until her parents take her into bed with them.

Ann Landers

We had an identical situation in our family. Her parents catered to Ellen and gave in to her because they couldn't stand the screaming. They took her in bed with them until she was ten years of age.

Ellen is now a woman of 40. She has been in and out of mental hospitals all her life. When she got out into the world and discovered she could not order everyone around the way she ordered her parents, she became so frustrated and angry that she withdrew to a world of make-believe.

Please keep telling parents that they owe it to their children to control them when they are young. If they fail in this duty the child pays a terrible price. — Mrs. M.E.B.

Dear Mrs. M.E.B.: Thank you for sharing a personal experience with us. I hesitate to hammer away at the same old line, but a letter like yours is well worth printing because parents need to be reminded time and time again that if they don't get control early they are sunk.

DEAR ANN LANERS: My parents are divorced and I live with my aunt and uncle. I have many friends at school who have invited me to their homes for dinner so many times I have lost track.

I would love to invite a few of the girls to have dinner here but I don't feel this is my home. I hinted to my aunt that I would like company once in a while and she said she didn't feel up to entertaining for herself, let alone for me. I hate to keep accepting invitations when I am not able to reciprocate. Can you help me with my problem? — Unhappy Girl

Dear Girl: The word "entertain" is scaring your aunt off. Tell her your would appreciate the privilege of inviting one girl at a time to share whatever is on the table. Surely she can bake an extra potato and buy one more chop.

Stress the fact that no special preparation is necessary. Tell her you want to use the same dishes and tablecloth. Offer to help prepare and clean up as part of your contribution. Only the coldest heart could say no to this simple request.

DEAR ANN: I married a widower six months ago and we are very happy. My first husband died in 1955. He was a handsome and brilliant man but I've made it a point not to talk about him to my present husband.

My husband rarely speaks of his first wife but his two sisters speak of nothing else. Last night I invited them to dinner and they raved endlessly about her impeccable taste, her charm, her beauty, her intellect, her priceless sense of humor, and her skill in the kitchen. As I sat there looking at my fallen souffle I felt terribly uncomfortable.

Am I overly sensitive or are they guilty of poor taste? This happens whenever we are together. Should I ask my husband to speak to them? — Ellen

Dear Ellen: Yes — and I'll bet he won't mind. His discomfort probably exceeded yours.

Too many starry-eyed lovers do not know the difference. Do you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet, "Before You Marry — Is It Love Or Sex?", enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HINTS FROM Heloise

Dear Heloise:

A nice old lady taught me this.

To keep meringue from falling on pies, of course bake it slowly, but soon as the pie is removed from the oven, dip a thin knife in hot water and cut through the meringue, not the pie, in serving pieces.

Heloise

Constant Reader

Dear Folks:

After trying this hint, I found I loved the idea of cutting through the meringue while the pie was still hot! Amazing when that knife was dipped in hot water how clean it cut through my warm meringue.

Now here's a few more hints that I have learned about meringues from famous bakers in three fabulous hotels:

Egg whites should always be room temperature before beating. And it should take a minimum of three eggs for each pie.

After they are beaten stiff but not dry, sprinkle one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar and a dash of salt on top and beat slightly.

Now. . .add slowly three level tablespoonfuls of sugar for each egg white in your bowl, beating all the while. This sounds like a lot, I know, but you could see the difference in the height of your meringue and the way it stands up after the pie is done. . .wow!

Professional bakers have proven to me that the following must be observed before baking:

Always have your meringue touching the edges of the pie crust. This prevents shrinking, etc.

If the pie is put on the middle shelf (not the top) in your oven, it will brown evenly and the points or swirls on your meringue won't get burned.

When it is almost as brown as you want it, if you turn off your oven and open the door slightly, it will cool slowly, and this prevents a meringue from cracking or splitting. Don't ever set a pie where cold drafts can get to it while it's hot. It must be cooled slowly.

And most important of all, (which I have saved till last, so that you will remember it):

Never put a meringue on a pie or use it anywhere else until you have tested it to see if the sugar is completely dissolved before cooking. The way to do this is to put some of it between two fingertips and rub them together.

Or (as I have just learned), it is even better to put a little of it on the tip of your tongue, rub it on the roof of your mouth and feel the undissolved sugar. "Chew" the meringue and you can even hear it grate between your teeth!

If you feel grains of sugar. . .believe it, you better keep beating some more. The grains should be completely dissolved before cooking, as this is one of the causes of "tears" on a pie. Either your eggs weren't room temperature, or you haven't beaten 'em enough.

And that's all I've stolen from the good chefs and cooks about pie meringue!

But aren't we glad they let me come into their kitchens and they taught me some of the secrets?

Bless 'em all.

Heloise

P.S. And when I asked each chef if his wife cooked pies and goodies, the answer was, "Heavens, no! Why should she?"

Dear Heloise:

We have one of those deep bicycle baskets (attached to the house) on the front porch — like a mail box is.

And our newsboy puts the paper in it.

It saves our paper from being blown all over town on windy days!

Dear Heloise:

In order to keep candle drippings off my table linens, I cut either a piece of clear plastic, or clear cellophane, somewhat larger than the base of the candle holder, and lay it under the holder.

This does not detract from the appearance of the cloth.

Father Groppi Talks Suitor Out of Murder

MILWAUKEE (AP)--A priest talked an angry suitor into surrendering Thursday night after the man had held an 8-inch knife at his girl friend's throat for nearly three hours.

The Rev. James E. Groppi, a Roman Catholic priest, talked for two hours with the man before a policeman was allowed to enter the apartment and the girl, 20, was releasde unharmed. harmed.

Father Groppi declined to reveal what took place while he was in the apartment. He said he considered it "confidential."

The man's mother had called police after an argument. The man, also 20, ordered police to stay away from the apartment. Father Groppi was allowed to enter an hour later.

The man was jailed.

Father Groppi, whose parish is in a predominantly Negro neighborhood, is a Milwaukee civil rights leader who became involved in a church controversy last fall when the auxiliary bishop of the Milwaukee archdiocese ordered him to cease participation in a civil rights boycott of public schools.

Woman Fears She May Choke While Eating

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D.

Dear Dr. Molner: All my life I've had a morbid fear of choking to death. It has become such an obsession that I can't eat solid foods.

Dr. Molner

I am a young woman, but can't dine out with friends. I had a nervous breakdown over this and must take sedatives, but even swallowing them is agony. I also have severe attacks in which I can't catch my breath and my throat constricts terribly. Is there anything I can do to conquer this? — Miss D.

The power of mind over matter can be a terrible thing, and in some instances can do what it is doing to you.

I'm not one to say, "See a psychiatrist" at the drop of a hat.

However, in a situation like yours, Miss D., I most heartily hope that you are under such a specialist's care — and if you aren't, I strongly urge that you consult one.

There may be a serious question of whether your fear of choking caused your nervous breakdown. Rather, the fear is a symptom of some underlying emotional turmoil, which evidently started in childhood. It is altogether likely that you do not consciously remember what started that emotional tension.

Medication alone isn't going to solve the problem. Rather, it is precisely the sort of condition for which we need psychiatrists. They dig out the deep and very likely unreasoning events or attitudes which now are making your life miserable.

This also appears to be the type of problem in which hypnosis may be effective. I caution you not to let this be undertaken by someone with only a smattering of hypnotic skill.

This is not a matter of using hypnotism as an easy means of trying to change your mind and to not be afraid of swallowing. Such an attack on the problem all too often merely results in converting the morbid fear into a different kind, and perhaps a worse one.

Rather, a psychiatrist may (depending on his judgment of the case) use hypnosis as a tool to find out what is really bothering you, buried so deep in your subconscious mind that you are unable to recognize it without help.

Get the best help that is available. There is no point in a young woman going through life burdened as you are. Finding the root of your fears may not be easy, but in the end it can transform your whole life.

Dear Dr. Molner: Is it true that a diabetic loses all sexual power due to this disease? I am in my 60's. — Y.Y.

Not necessarily. Loss of potential frequency occurs in diabetics of long standing, but not in all. At your age, the complaint is not unusual even in people who don't have diabetes.

Congressman Deplores Farm Action

Raising dairy price support levels to 78 per cent of parity and at the same time increasing cheddar cheese imports by 926,700 pounds is short-sighted, cruel and ill-advised.

The description was made by Rep. John A. Race of Fond du Lac concerning the action of Orville Freeman, Secretary of Agriculture

The small increase in price support to $3.50 per hundredweight is too little and probably too late, Race said. The action is designed exclusively to drive down retail prices to consumers, however, it will have the damaging effect of driving thousands of dairy farmers off the land. This will in turn shorten dairy supplies and raise consumer prices.

Increased cheddar cheese imports, the worst blow of all, will drive the dairy farmer out of business.

Secretary Freeman owes it to the American dairy farmer and the consumer to re-examine his action with a view of raising supports to a minimum of $3 75 and reduce the cheddar cheese imports, the congressman said.

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three Ls, X for the two Os, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Use Floral Picture Cutouts To Attach on Dyed Eggs

BY CAPPY DICK

Floral pictures, either painted yourself or applied in the form of cutouts make pretty Easter eggs. If you are good with water colors or oil paints use your skill on the eggs after hard-boiling them and allowing them to cool. If you don't feel equal to the painting task use cutouts from an old flower seed catalog.

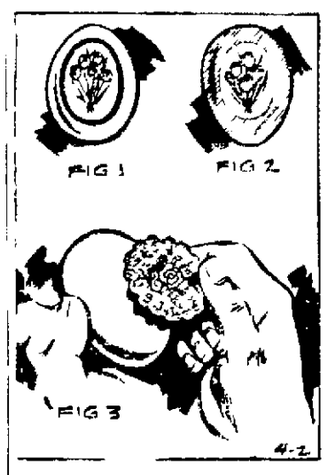

Eggs you intend to paint should be left undyed. If cutouts are to be attached, they may be dyed first. If you would like to leave an oval area undyed, simply place the boiled egg in a large spoon and dip it only partly into the dye. This will leave an oval space undyed. This area may then be used for your painting or cutout (see Figures 1 and 2).

Cutouts that are square or oblong will not fit flat on the curved surface of an egg, so it is advisable to cut the flowers around their petals, leaves and stems. This will let them fit more smoothly to the eggs. The thinner the paper, the easier it will be to mold to the curve of the egg.

Lacy sections from a paper doily, especially if gold or silver in color, make attractive frames for tiny floral cutouts (Figure 3). Cut out only the part of the doily you want to use. Paste the cutout at the center, then paste the doily to egg. In this case, it is not necessary to have the entire section of the doily pasted, instead allow it to project from the surface with just the center of the back pasted.

LOTS MORE GOOD FUN FOR EVERY BOY AND GIRL!

Man Placed on Probation for 11 Bad Checks

John Oliver, Former Appleton Resident, Admits Charges

John Oliver, 32, formerly of Appleton but listing his address as Las Vegas, Nev., was placed on probation for five years Friday afternoon after he pleaded guilty to 11 counts of issuing worthless checks and one of absconding.

Oliver, who appeared with his court-appointed attorney, had pleaded guilty on March 14 to the absconding charge filed after he failed to pay for lodging last November at the Fox City Motel in Kaukauna.

The guilty pleas accepted in Outagamie County Court Branch 2 Friday were for five counts of worthless checks in Outagamie County, two in Waupaca County and another four in Winnebago County.

Five Checks

The five Outagamie checks, in amounts from $10 to $35, were cashed at Appleton and Black Creek business places from Sept. 23 to Nov. 24.

Oliver had applied for consolidation of the Waupaca and Winnebago charges with the Outagamie counts. He admitted cashing a $10 check and a $25 check in the Town of Farmington in Waupaca County in September and October, and three checks of $35 and another of $45 Nov. 24 and 25 in the towns of Menasha and Black Wolf and in Oshkosh in Winnebago County.

In addition, the court was told there were eight more worthless checks cashed for which Oliver was not being charged, bringing the total amount of worthless checks to 19.

Extradition Started

Oliver's attorney pointed out that although the former Appleton man left the state and extradition proceedings had been started with Nevada authorities, he returned of his own free will.

He has been in Outagamie County jail since March 10 after he first appeared in court and could not furnish bond of $5,000.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller placed Oliver on probation for two years on the absconding count, and one year each on the first three check counts, with each term of probation to run consecutively.

Probation of one year each was imposed on counts four through 11, with those terms to run concurrent with all others.

Judge Keller also ordered Oliver, as a condition of probation, to make restitution of all 19 checks and pay court costs.

Wilfred Pierre, Merchant From Leeman, Dies

Wilfred Pierre, 59, Leeman, operator of the General Store for the past 28 years, died Friday at Clintonville.

Born in 1907 in Brussels, Wis., Pierre is survived by his widow, two daughters, and three sons.

Also surviving him are three brothers, one sister and 17 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be at 10 a.m. Monday at the St. Lawrence Catholic Church, Navarino, of which he was a member. Burial will be in the parish cemetery.

Friends may call at the Borchardt and Moder Funeral Home, Shiocton from 2 p.m. Sunday until the time of service.

Let's EXPLORE YOUR MIND

By Sylvanus M. Duvall, Ph.D. and Evelyn M. Duvall, Ph.D.

This is easier said than done. All kinds of people who meet the public are called upon to counsel. Bartenders must listen to tales of woe. Storekeepers often counsel, especialy if they are good friends of their customers. In more recent years, those who take orders in brokerage houses must counsel people who are concerned about what the stock market is going to do and about how to accept their losses. Counseling is inherent in public contact, regardless of professional training or competence.

Sex differences are more than physical?

True—— False——

True. Acting as though sex is only a physical fact of life disregards what it means to be human. Sex is an aspect of personality, with many emotional, social and personal expressions. Being born a boy or a girl influences a person's development in ways that go beyond bodily characteristics. Children early must learn what it means to be boys and girls and to grow up into men and women who live together in a two-sex world. Anything less is ineffective sex education.

Do people impose moral laws on themselves?

Yes—— No——

Yes. Moral laws (often called social norms) originate in the need of man for order and group protection. They survive only because, in the long run, they are necessary. People are always experimenting with different ways of behavior. As a result, moral standards are, in modern society, always changing. But in essence they are the efforts of societies to meet the requirements for good social living.

WHY GROW OLD BEFORE YOUR TIME? The after-40 years can be the best of your life. . .if you know how to live them. St. Mary grade school children were given the Blessing at the 8 a.m. mission mass Friday.

Sunday will also be Family Communion Day for the parishioners.

William Kellett Will Talk at Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE — William R. Kellett, Neenah, head of the Kellett Committee on Improved Management of Wisconsin Governmental Expenditures, will be among principal speakers at the third annual forum for progress April 21 in the Milwaukee War Memorial Center.

Gov. Warren Knowles and Angus B. Rothwell, State Superintendent of Public Instruction, are expected to make major policy statements.

Kellett, former president of Kimberly-Clark Corp., will be the second speaker on the morning schedule, following Gov. Knowles. A panel discussion on economy in state government will follow Kellett's address.

Two Motorists Fined $15 After Accidents

KAUKAUNA — Two motorists pleaded guilty of inattentive driving and paid fines of $15 to Municipal Court Justice, Oscar T. Jahns, Friday.

Fined after being involved in minor accidents were Robert Jones, 32, route 2, Kaukauna, and Lloyd Domke, 25, 913 Boyd Ave., Kaukauna.

Man Fined $25, Costs for Issuing Worthless Checks

A fine of $25 plus costs, or 12 days in jail was ordered Friday afternoon for Robert Chapelle, 46, 826 E. North St., who pleaded guilty to six counts of issuing worthless checks.

The six checks, in amounts from $10 to $60 and totaling $160, were cashed during May and June of last year at Fouray Beverages, 731 E. Wisconsin Ave.

The complaint against Chapelle was made by Edward S. Campshure, owner of the beverage store. The court was told Chapelle attempted to make restitution of the checks shortly after the complaint was issued.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller ordered that Chapelle make full restitution for the worthless checks.

Neenah Student Earns Scholastic Honors

OSHKOSH — Kenneth Peterson of Neenah is one of eight students and 15 faculty members who will be inducted into Wisconsin State University-Oshkosh's Sigma Pi Epsilon honor society at an initiation banquet April 19 at the Town House here.

Sigma Pi Epsilon is a high honors society for WSU-O's school of leters and science and operates on the Phi Beta Kappa criteria of scholarly excellence. This is the third year of its existence. After five years of operation, Sigma Pi Epsilon will be eligible for admittance to Phi Beta Kappa National Society.

21st Century Education Will Be Challenge

Old Language Won't Suffice, Teachers Are Told

FOND DU LAC — "Education for the 21st Century" was the challenge placed by Dr. Gerald Wendt to teachers attending the annual convention of the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association here Friday.

Dr. Wendt was director of science and education for the New York World's Fair, science editor for Time, Inc., and editorial director of "Science Illustrated." He is the author of many books including "You and the Atom."

Dr. Wendt warned that the old language used in books will not suffice for youngsters any more since they are learning many new things from the astronauts.

"When they are taught that heaven is in the sky and that no longer is there any such thing as the sky, then where is heaven?" he said as an example.

Retrain Workers

Dr. Wendt turned from space to automation in discussing the education for the 21st century. "Any readjustment seems to be tragedy. This will go on faster and faster and we will have to face it. He said of automation this will be a great problem for the youngsters who are the ones who will have to cope with the increased automation.

More important, Dr. Wendt said, is that the threat of automation is we do not need so many people to do the work. A different value is placed on work. Many are now being retrained for work in industry which in another five years will be automated.

The school, he continued, is the means for creative work. One thing a machine cannot do is to dream, to create and to imagine.

He cited the country is about to experience a renaissance in culture through enrichment in life and understanding. This is intellectual recreation flourishing through drama, art and music.

Church Must Help

He cited the school has a role in this program but that it is not alone. The church also could do it, he said.

Another convention speaker, Dr. Irvamae Applegate, said "Education must reflect its own time in space and help us understand the world around us."

Dr. Applegate, dean of the school of education, St. Cloud, Minn. State College, and president-elect of the National Education Association, warned that never before have teachers been expected to accomplish so many things. The new area of world understanding, she said, may be a blessing in disguise because it will force educators to re-examine curricula and question results. There are no lesson plans, no ready-made teaching aids for world understanding courses, she explained.

Tipsy Driving Trial Date Set

Trial was set Aug. 8 for Emro W. Springstroh, 44, 942 W. Northland Ave., after he pleaded innocent Friday afternoon to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller set bond at $250.

Springstroh was arrested by Appleton police about 1 a.m. Sunday at Mason Street and Badger Avenue.

Two Youths Referred To Juvenile Court After Store Break-in

NEENAH — Two 16-year-old youths were apprehended Friday in connection with the burglary of the J. C. Penney store in the Fox Point Shopping Center last week.

The store was burglarized of merchandise valued at some $450, including four rifles, ammunition, gun cases and a transistor tape recorder.

Police questioned a number of suspects before narrowing it down to the two youths. They have been referred to juvenile court.

The store was apparently "broken out" of, police said, because no evidence of forcible entry was found. Police surmised that the burglars may have hidden inside and then forced an inside lock to escape.

Youth, 16, Jailed for Driving Without Permit

Russell J. Paeth, 16, 1530 E. Glendale Ave., Friday afternoon was sentenced to 10 days in the Outagamie County jail after he pleaded guilty of operating a motor vehicle after his driver's license had been revoked.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller, who noted that the sentence was mandatory under state law, said that the youth will be allowed to leave jail during the day to attend school.

He was arrested March 26 by Appleton police.

Menasha Files Suit Quashed At Appleton

MENASHA — City Attorney Richard Steffens has corrected the technical omissions in the city's case against the Town of Menasha and has refiled the suit in court.

The case involves a suit by the city — petitioned for in a write of mandanus — for the purpose of forcing the town to name three men to an extraterritorial zoning commission.

The petition to force the town to make the appointments was quashed by Outagamie County Circuit Court Judge Andrew Parnell last week because it lacked two technical legal requirements.

Amended Petition

At a cost of $25 to the city, Steffens has amended the petition, as well as beefing up the city's case with extra documents, and the issue is now expected to go back to Parnell for a decision on the meat of the case.

The city passed an ordinance in the summer of 1964 that froze all zoning in an area extending out three miles from the city limits. Only the extraterritorial zoning commission, consisting of three members from both the city and town, can change the zoning in the areas. Without the commission, there is a "freeze" on zoning changes.

Town Attorney Everett Stecker said he had not had a chance to study the amended petition filed by Steffens and had no comment on the case.

Start Program For Deprived At New London

Superintendent to Hire Teachers for Junior High Phase

NEW LONDON — Supt. H. James Ramsdell was authorized Thursday night by the board of education to initiate classes under the poverty program's Secondary Education Act as approved by the State Department of Public Instruction.

The program would establish two reference centers, an on-the-job training program for the educable child and a social worker.

Initially just the equipment for the reference reading centers will be purchased and the program will be operated at the junior high level.

Name Teachers

Mrs. John Lehman, 114 Laura St., and Mrs. James Patritto, 504 E. Cook St., were named teachers for the junior high center.

John Lehman was named coordinator at both programs. He is the head of the high school English department and will supervise the reading center program in off hours.

Gary Zuehlke, Fremont, bookkeeper at the school, will be financial agent for the entire poverty program in off hours.

Other personnel will be hired as they become available. Ramsdell said most programs submitted for approval were connected with correction of reading deficiencies. This has put a drain on qualified persons available and also raised the price of equipment to be used in reading programs.

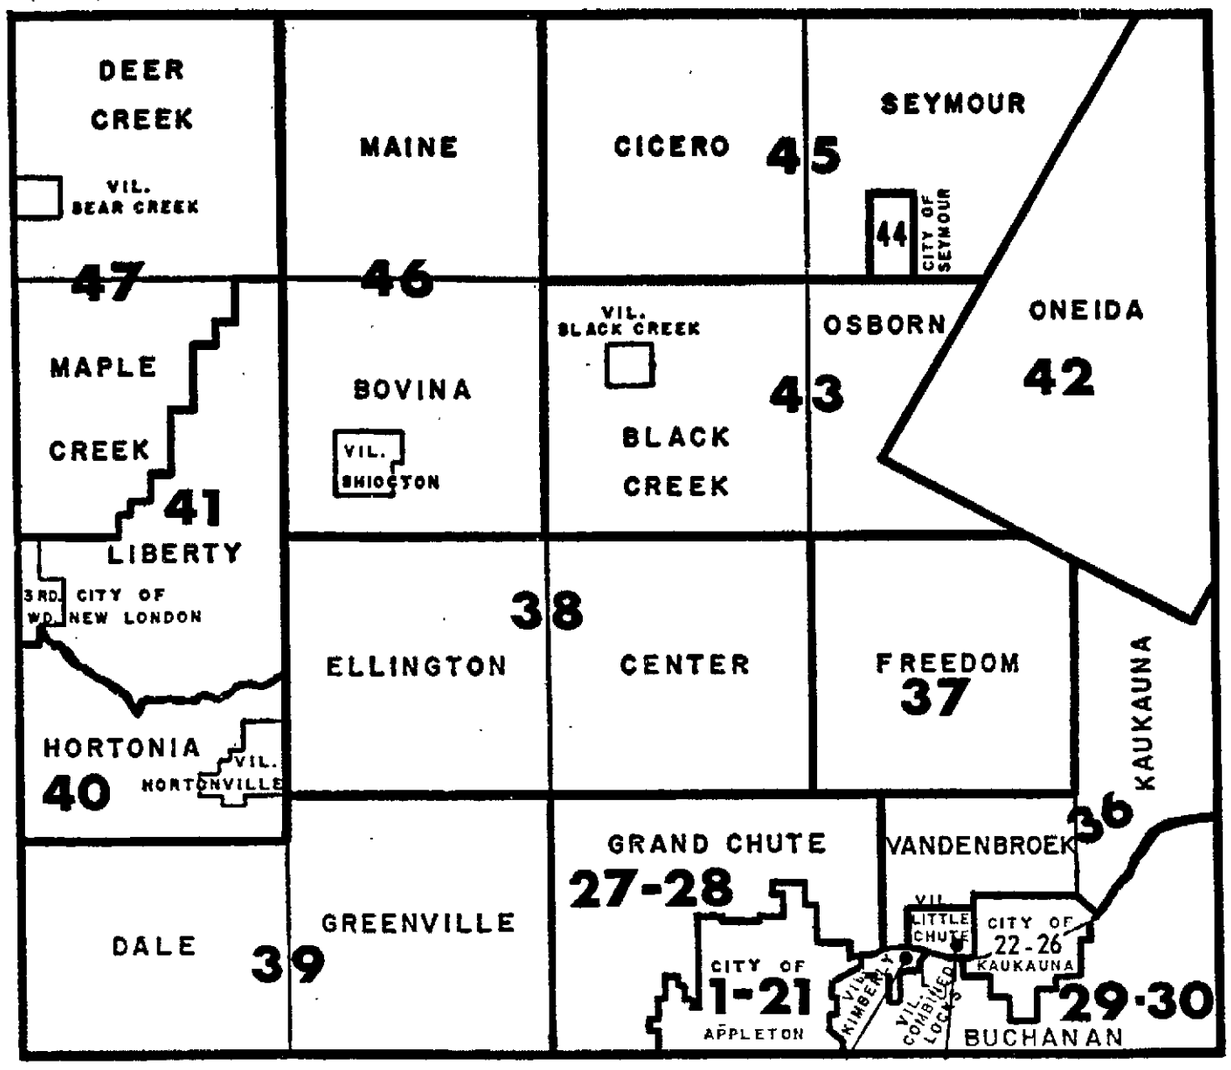

Cabinet Contract

Mel's Cabinetry was awarded the contract for home economics department cabinets in the new senior high school on the basis of his low bid of $10,898.

The New London firm's bid was one of three prices submitted to the board.

School census-takers will be paid on the basis of the number and location of each child. Those taking the census within the city will receive 10-cents per name and those in the country, 13-cents.

A door-to-door canvas will be made of the entire district to obtain an accurate list of school age children.

Outagamie Voters Will Elect their county board representatives Tuesday on the basis of this apportionment plan approved by supervisors last August. Officially starting with the April 19 board meeting, there will be 47 supervisors for the county's 102,000 residents. The old board included 55 supervisors. As can be seen on the above map, towns and villages have been combined under a single district in some cases, while in other cases, cities, villages and towns are split into multiple districts.

Outagamie's Voters To Pick Judge, Board

Contests in 20 of 47 Supervisory Districts; Lorge-Van Susteren Match Expected to Attract Voters

Twenty-one contests, including one for judge, will be featured in balloting on the county level Tuesday.

The other 20 contests are for county board seats which have been reduced in number from 55 to 47 under provisions of a new apportionment plan.

The judge match, featuring incumbent Urban P. Van Susteren and State Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek, is expected to draw more Outagamie County voters to the polls than would normally be the case in an election of this type.

Both are candidates for the probate judgeship and their respective committees have done a considerable amount of house-to-house campaigning in the past week and interest in the contest appears to be running high.

Radical Change

The most radical change in county board personnel in recent years will become effective with the first post-election board meeting, on April 19.

At least 20 incumbent supervisors will not return. Thirteen are not seeking re-election, two were defeated in primary races last month and in five districts incumbents will square off against each other, meaning five supervisors will be "bumped."

Sixty-six candidates will seek the 47 board posts Tuesday. The field was 74 prior to primaries in four districts.

Supervisory districts in which incumbents are not seeking election include 2, 6, 9, 18, 21, 26, 28, 31, 32, 33, 34 and 47. Incumbents are running unopposed in 20 districts.

Two Women

Two women are seeking board election Tuesday, and both are opposed.

Mrs. Rose Schroeder, 224 E. Washington St., will oppose Supv. Henry A. Bartz, 550 N. Clark St., (Appleton 1) for the city's third district, while in the Dist. 9, Andrew J. Schiltz, 505 S. Locust St., a former Outagamie County sheriff, will be opposed by Mrs. Barbara Steger, 744 W. Spencer St., a housewife.

Districts where incumbents are vying for re-election are 36, where candidates are George Kroes (Town of Vandenbroek) and Urban J. Nelessen (Town of Ellington); 39, featuring supervisors Rudolph Spreeman (Town of Greenville) and Stanley Perkins (Town of Dale).

Other Contests

The other three districts where voters will chose between present supervisors are 43, Edward Peotter (Town of Osborn) and I.A. (Curly) Grunwaldt (Village of Black Creek); 45, Norman M. Helms (Town of Seymour) and Chris Roepcke (Town of Cicero); 46, Cecil Carpenter (Town of Maine) and Ervin W. Conradt (Town of Bovina.)

Only six contests for county board will take place in Appleton's 21 supervisory districts. Included are districts 3, Supv. Bartz and Mrs. Schroeder; 6, Charles E Wussow and Robert F. Schmieder; 8, Allen Buholz and Supv. Mark Catlin Jr.; 9, Schiltz and Mrs. Steger; 13, Supv. Glenn E. Pelton and Peter J. Goerl; 14, Supv. John G. Dietz and Howard F Stumpf, and 18, Arnold R. Welch and Lawrence M. Thomas.

Other cities and villages included in supervisory districts having contests are Kimberly, Hortonville, New London's Third Ward, Black Creek, Shiocton and Bear Creek.

No Contests

None of Kaukauna's five districts have contests, and in four of the districts, incumbents are candidates. There are no contests in Little Chute, Combined Locks, or Seymour.

Although county judicial and supervisory balloting will highlight Tuesday's Outagamie election, voters also will indicate their desires on three referenda questions and will be asked to vote for a justice of the State Supreme Court. Thomas E. Fairchild is the lone state justice candidate.

There also are school board elections in some of the municipalities.

Okay of Indian Affairs Bureau Head Delayed

Senate Committee Lauds Bennett, But Criticizes Department

WASHINGTON (AP)— Senate Interior Committee members delayed action Friday on the nomination of a Wisconsin-born Indian to head the Bureau of Indian Affairs until they can present recommendations on Indian policy.

Robert L. Bennett, the first Indian named to head the bureau in nearly 100 years, drew praise personally from the committee, but the senators were sharply critical of the bureau itself.

Squalid Conditions

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the committee, told Bennett that he found it amazing that so many of the nation's Indians still live in squalid conditions despite $1.5 billion in appropriations for their benefit since 1961.

Jackson noted the government has about 22,000 employes to look after 380,000 Indians. He questioned whether correct policies were being pursued.

There was no objection voiced to Bennett's appointment, but the committee decided to write a report setting forth what it wants done before voting on recommending Senate confirmation.

30-Year Man

Bennett has been with the bureau for 30 years and has been deputy commissioner since last October. He was born on the Oneida Reservation near Green Bay, Wis., in 1912.

President Johnson nominated Bennett to succeed former Wisconsin Lt. Gov. Philleo Nash who resigned as commissioner March 15.

Bennett testified that he planned to streamline the bureau to make it more responsive to Indian needs.

"The destructive effects of paternalism must be overcome," Bennett said.

Jackson said that with all of the government's education, social welfare and related programs, "It seems we should be able to do better by the Indians."

Eventual Goal

Bennett said the eventual goal is to make it possible to terminate federal supervision of the Indians, but added he could set no timetable for accomplishing this.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said that Congress a dozen years ago listed a number of tribes that were ready to handle their own affairs, but "almost nothing has been done."

Testifying in support of Bennett's nomination were Sens. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, and Karl E. Mundt, D-S.D., and Rep. Ben. Reifel, R-S.D., himself an Indian.

Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association

Educational TV System Sought by Teacher Group

FOND DU LAC — A statewide educational television network is being sought by the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association.

The association's delegate assembly asked Friday that the Legislature consider providing the necessary cash to create such a network.

The association represents about 6,000 public school teachers in an 18-county area. The teachers also urged that school systems adopt a professional pay schedule based on a formula that would furnish increases sufficient to double a teacher's starting salary in 10 years.

President Elect

The association chose James Larson of Sheboygan as president-elect. Thomas Evans of Oshkosh was installed as president Friday.

The teachers elected Baylord Unbehaun of Brillion as vice president. Named to the executive committee were Henry Kirhoff, Green Bay; Allen Linster, Plymouth; Leo Lang, Campbellsport, and Miss Edna Palecheck, Winneconne.

With Oshkosh chosen as the 1967 convention site, the delegates amended the constitution to include Manitowoc in the list of convention cities, its turn to come in 1969, following the 1968 convention at Sheboygan. Others in rotation are Appleton, Green Bay and Fond du Lac.

Edmund Kwaterski, president, estimated there were about 5,000 present at Friday's convention which included general sessions at Goodrich High School gymnasium, the Fond du Lac Theater and Roosevelt School Auditorium. Luncheons and sectional meetings were held in the afternoon at various churches, school clubs and restaurants.

A long-range planning committee was authorized to continue study of a proposal to divide the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association into north and south divisions. Few cities in the association have convention facilities for the 7,600 members expected by 1967, Kwaterski said.

The committee was instructed to consider means of replacing NWEA officials who leave the district or who do not serve in their elected capacities and also to continue the study of the relationship between the association and the Wisconsin Education Association.

Black Creek Boy Suffers Side, Head Injuries in Mishap

NEW LONDON — Manual H. Anaya, 2, Black Creek, received contusions, abrasions and lacerations to his left side and the left side of his head when he was struck by a car at 2:20 p.m. Friday on N. Water Street about 140 feet east of State Street.

The child, son of Mr. and Mrs. Santo Anaya, was rushed to Community Hospital in the Cline and Hanson Ambulance. His condition was reported good.

City police investigating the accident reported the child ran from between parked cars into the path of a west bound car driven by Harry L. Hoppe, 58, Webb St., Wittenberg. Skid marks of approximately 27 feet were left where the driver was unable to stop in time to avoid striking the child with the right bumper of his car.

NE Teachers Told Red China Should Be Admitted to UN

BY ALLAN EKVALL
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

FOND DU LAC — Admitting Red China to the United Nations was advocated here Friday by Dr Ralph E. Lapp, noted atomic scientist and one-time executive director of the Atomic Energy Research and Development Board of the U. S. Department of Defense.

Dr Lapp was the principal speaker at the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association convention attended by some 5,000 teachers from 17 counties.

He reasoned that Red China should be in the United Nations so that the Chinese could see that America is not interested in the destruction of the world.

Dr. Lapp spoke on "Explosion in the East: Red China as a Nuclear Power."

"Dirty Eggs"

"We can destroy China," Dr. Lapp said, by 200 bombers dropping their "dirty eggs" on 13 of China's 23 provinces.

Each B-52 bomber can carry two 25-megaton bombs, a bomb with the equivalent of 50 million tons of TNT that can spread lethal radioactivity over 250 square miles. Fatalities would be 80 per cent in these areas. It would kill about half of China's 750 million population and render the soil radioactive.

Dr. Lapp cited how today's bomb was 1,250 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima. He cited that radio-strontium, or strontium-90 has a life span of 28 years and a potency that can inflict "agricultural defeat" on any nation in the world, icluding China.

Khrushchev Knew

The problem, he said, is that Mao Tse-tung does not understand this potential.

"Khrushchev understood it and Russia is no great strategic threat to us today. The scientists got to Khrushchev and educated him.

"Mao's scientists have not gotten to him," Dr. Lapp continued.

China is not an immediate threat, he said, because it does not have the technology to make the break-through.

But, he said, China has a very large quantity of alithium, which, he said, can make them very dangerous once they have developed it for nuclear warfare.

Dr. Lapp pointed to the $13 billion appropriated by Congress recently for the war in Viet Nam "If China can bleed us this way, there is no necessity to engage us strategically."

Urged Destruction

The noted atomic scientist said the late President Kennedy had been urged to attack China and destroy its nuclear sites and that the late president was "mulling it over." He said he thought it highly incredible that the United States would do such a thing, adding that it is often the hard answer that wins out — the Defense Department over the State Department."

Dr. Lapp said he was concerned because of Viet Nam. "The control of the bomb is in Peking, but the fuse is in Viet Nam." He said he hoped a war could be held off and that better communications established with China. He hoped it would be possible for China to see that nuclear war does nothing, not even for the Chinese.

"China in the United Nations could accomplish this." Dr. Lapp felt it could help establish the deterrent to a nuclear war.

"Even if it seems soft and long-ranged in nature, it is the only and ultimate way the world can come to peace," Dr. Lapp concluded.

CLINTONVILLE — Damages of $125 were caused, at 1:30 p.m., Thursday, when a car driven by Charles F. Dexter, 28, 88 Torrey St., Clintonville, went out of control and ran through a fence, one mile south of Clintonville on U.S. 45.

Teachers Unite for Collective Bargaining

Oshkosh Conference Told to Build Strong Local Unions to be Sold on Its Merits

OSHKOSH — Fox Valley members of the Wisconsin Federation of Teachers marshalled forces today to win collective bargaining rights.

Some 150 teachers have registered for the conference at the Pioneer Marina from locals in Fond du Lac, Menasha, Two Rivers, Appleton and Oshkosh.

They were urged by Robert Kelley, director of organizations for Wisconsin Federation of Teachers, to concern themselves with building strong locals to win collective bargaining. "The union must be sold on its own merit," Kelley said, "and four basic elements make a forceful union."

Strong Active Leadership

He advised them to provide strong active leadership, to create a platform which includes ideas and needs for all teachers, to involve all teachers in the systems in upgrading their profession and to work unceasingly to make personal contact with each teacher in their school.

The benefits of collective bargaining reaped in Wisconsin during the past year were outlined by Geraldine Marchant, executive director of Wisconsin Federation of Teachers.

"The completion of the contract agreement before April 1 deadlines in Menasha and Superior," she said, "were achieved through union pressure on school boards." She described the contract between Menasha teachers and the board of education as a "significant gain for collective bargaining for all locals."

Menasha Contract

The new Menasha contract has won for teachers a raise in the standards of their profession by making a bachelor's degree a minimum contract requirement, has won salary raises for all teachers and won teachers' tenure.

Teacher tenure is something unions have been fighting for since their initial organization. "Kenosha teachers have it through the board resolution, Milwaukee teachers have it through the state legislation and Menasha teachers now have it through a collective bargaining agreement. Menasha's position in tenure is the strongest of the three and the one least likely to be removed."

New London Truck Firm Asks PSC Ruling

Schuelke Truck Co. Seeks Expansion to Five Area Businesses

NEW LONDON — A Public Service Commission (PSC) ruling is expected soon on Schuelke Trucking Co.'s Hortonville Road, application to expand its service to five area businesses.

Testimony was heard Friday. PSC officials will review testimony and investigate evidence before rendering a decision.

No formal protest was raised, but Gerald F. Huettl, general manager of Seymour Transfer Line, cross-examined some of the witnesses appearing in the case.

Appearing in favor of Schuelke's petition were Duane Russ, owner of a business supply center; William Johnson, a farm machine dealer; Warren Kluge, a saw mill operator, and Morris Nelson, Manawa, president of Farmwell, Inc.

Albert Hass, Schuelke manager, said it was the second time in about six months the firm had come before the PSC to ask for expansion of its local rights as a carrier.

Hass, in his testimony, said the firm makes up to four trips to the Chicago area daily, but had very little freight on return trips to New London, which is the base for the firm. The firm operates seven tractors and has 13 trailers, Hass testified.

Firms Served

Hass said firms which his company would serve were Interstate Vault Co. (manufacturer of concrete burial vaults); Russ Business Supply, Farmwell, Inc., Johnson Implements, and Ivan Lumber.

Vaults would be transported from New London to various points in the state, Hass said. Crated and uncrated furniture from a center in Manitowoc would be transported to the city for the business supply house. Fiberglass boats and products would be transported from Manawa and raw materials into the city for Farmwell. New and used machinery would be brought into the area for the implement company, Hass testified. Lumber would be transported out and parts brought in for the lumber firm.

Russ said he found the trucking service of Schuelke and STL to be excellent. The present service from Manitowoc, which neither firm provides, takes five to 11 days, Russ said. Schuelke has guaranteed delivery and that products will not have to be crated, Russ said. This would make for speedier receipt of orders and a reduction in cost, he added.

Prime Area

Kluge testified that the main use would be to ship lumber to points southeast of New London. He mentioned Sheboygan, Dorchester and Milwaukee as a prime market areas for lumber.

Johnson said most machinery came from the Racine area and that presently it took seven to 10 days for delivery. Shipments are received up to three times a week depending upon the time of year, he said.

Nelson said the only firm he knew of that could serve his firm was STL and because of the nature of their franchise it may not be possible for them to deliver to all points in the state.

"Our business has expanded and we believe will need more commercial carrier service," Nelson said. "We presently employ 12-24 but this is expected to double within the next year."

A letter from DuWayne Mathewson, co-owner of Interstate Vault, supporting the Schuelke application, was admitted as evidence.

Huettl did not testify, nor did he raise any real objections during the hearing.

Palm Sunday Will Begin Holy Week

Christ's Triumphant Entrance Into Jerusalem to be Observed

Palm Sunday, which begins Holy Week for Christians throughout the world, commemorates the triumphant entrance of Jesus Christ into Jerusalem

In Catholic churches, the ceremony will include the solemn blessing and distribution of palms, processions, the mass and the reading of the passion

In the Eastern Orthodox churches the procession is now omitted but palms are blessed and held by the worshippers during the service In almost all Protestant churches the altars are decorated with palms and in some, palms are also distributed to the congregation

The custom of distributing branches of palms to the people symbolizes the victory of Christ against the evil powers

According to the scriptures the news that Jesus was in Bethany, just outside Jerusalem, where a few days previously he had raised Lazarus from the dead, provoked a general enthusism of acceptance from the people

The main road leading to Jerusalem passed south of the Mount of Olives which was covered with palm trees The multitude awaiting Christ's arrival plucked the branches from the trees and spread their cloaks on the road as a show of respect and cried out, "Hosanna to the highest"

In Jerusalem, Jews from many lands and especially Galilee had assembled From the Mount of Olives Jesus saw Jerusalem and wept

Thus began Passion Week

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

PALM SUNDAY

"All glory, laud, and honor to Thee, Redeemer King!
To whom the lips of children made sweet hosannas ring."

This beautiful Palm Sunday hymn dates back to 820 AD. It was written by Theodulph, bishop of Orleans, the Emperor Charlemagne's principal theologian. Legend has it that after Charlemagne's death, Theodulph was imprisoned on false accusations He wrote the hymn in prison and supposedly sang it from his prison window as Louis I and his court were on the way to the cathedral. Upon hearing it, Louis immediately freed the good bishop. The hymn was translated into English by John Neale in 1851.

The music for this stirring processional hymn was written by Melchior Teschner, a Lutheran pastor in Silesia in 1615. As far as is known it is the only music he wrote. But Jesus's triumphal entry into Jerusalem and the words of Theodulph inspired Teschner this one time. Together they gave us our role on Palm Sunday which is expressed in the fifth verse.

"To thee before thy passion
They sang their hymns of praise:
To thee, now high exalted
Our melody we raise."

Athiestic Red Chinese Drive Christians Into Lonely Solitude

By JEAN HELLER

NEW YORK (AP) — Red China's increasing bitterness toward the Western world has driven its Christian churches still deeper into their lonely isolation

The fact that the churches survive in fair numbers despite the pressures of an atheistic government is known only through reports from travelers and refugees

Chinese Christianity has been cut off from direct contact with world church organizations since the Communists took over in 1949 Dr Wallace Merwin an Asian specialist of the National Council of Churches, sees little prospect of a change in the near future. The United Presbyterian Church in the U S A, however, is seeking by various means to hold the door open until a day comes when Red China may relax its hostility

Freedom Promised

"There is an article in the constitution of every Communist nation, including China, that guarantees freedom of religion," Dr Merwin said

"And in China there never was the active effort to suppress the church as there was in the early days of Soviet communism Nevertheless, the fact is, churches in China exist by the grace of the government, and church-to-state relationships are far from ideal

"The best word for the situation would be toleration," he continued "The church must tolerate the government because opposition, nonconformity is the greatest possible crime in a communist state So long as the church will stay in line the government will tolerate it

"On the other hand, to survive the Christian church has been forced to abandon those Christian ideals which would put it at odds with the regime If the Christians want to maintain their churches, they must tolerate the government"

Because of the tightrope the churches walk, Dr Merwin said, they dare not attempt to create outside relations while the Peking government holds aloof

Ecumenical Channels

Dr Archie Crouch, spokesman for the United Presbyterian Church in the U S A, said it hopes to make contact with the churches in China through various ecumenical channels, such as the World Council of Churches the East Asia Christian Peace Conference, the World Student Christian Federation, and the Christian Peace Conference

Dr Crouch said the church in which Presbyterians were most interested is the Church of Christ in China, made up of 17 Protestant denominations, primarily Presbyterian, which had missionaries in China until the Communist revolution forced them all out

The Church of Christ is the largest single church in China, but there also are many Baptist, Lutheran and Roman Catholic churches

Their survival alone, Dr Crouch said is reason enough for hope for the future.

It Pays to Write Your Senator

"I could write a letter to my congressman, but what good would that do?"

This is a common enough quotation from citizens who regard big government in Washington as too far removed from the voters back home. But congressional mail is read, at least that which is not obviously part of a recognizable mass mailing campaign. Lawrence Ernest, a Milwaukee chemical engineer, will testify to that.

In May, 1963, Ernest came home bewildered and worried from a shopping trip to buy a tire. He was upset by a salesman's explanation that tires of varying prices were, somehow, the same depending on how much money you wanted to spend. Ernest wrote a letter to Sen. Gaylord Nelson.

The letter from Ernest, of course, is not the reason Nelson's tire safety bill passed the Senate 79-0 last week. But once Nelson raised the subject, he received a blizzard of letters from across the country and plenty of testimony from safety experts.

As amended by Nelson, the bill will require the Secretary of Commerce within one year after the law becomes effective to publish a uniform set of standards for tire quality. He also is directed to work with industry and the Federal Trade Commission to arrive at methods to label quality of tires to replace the existing list of meaningless adjectives, like super-deluxe.

The original bill before the Nelson amendment directed the Secretary of Commerce to establish minimum safety standards for tires and to require that tires be labeled with safety information like size, load carrying capacity, and proper inflation pressures. In a Senate speech, Nelson said this would drive "cheapie" tires from the market and would enable customers to buy tires to match the requirements of their automobiles.

The bill now is before the House Commerce Committee. The unanimous Senate vote for it would appear to indicate that there is no doubt the legislation is needed and that it covers a field a nation too busy with other problems had time to think about. President Johnson asked for tire safety legislation in his message last month on creating a cabinet-level Department of Transportation.

It is interesting to speculate whether Congress and the President would have discovered the problem if Ernest had not decided to write his senator.

Let's Go on College Avenue

The democratic process was given a shot in the arm this week and the air cleared to a great degree on the proposed College Avenue reconstruction when downtown property owners had an opportunity to express themselves on the basic question whether Appleton is to have a progressive or regressive future.

While property owners were split on their opinions as to what kind of treatment College Avenue should have when reconstructed, the majority favored the immediate implementation of the plan recommended by Harland Bartholomew and Associates, the St. Louis firm which prepared Appleton's overall comprehensive plan as a guideline for meeting municipal problems and growth between now and 1985.

Considering that there have been several meetings over the past year, plus public hearings for the merchants and property owners on the Avenue, the day of decision has now arrived for the Common Council. It would seem that no matter what the outcome of next week's election, and whether or not there are new aldermen, the Council now has an obligation to set the plan for "Appleton's Downtown of Tomorrow" in action without delay.

College Avenue is the retail hub of the Fox Cities but in recent years has been caught in a squeeze as commercial developments have sprung up around the periphery of the city and press their bid for the consumer dollar. Because the Avenue is the main artery in the central business district its property values represent a sizeable portion of the city's tax base.

We are confident the residents of Appleton and members of the city's progress-minded business community do not want to see stores pulling out of the downtown, making for empty buildings and loss of valuable tax revenues. And they surely don't want to have national firms with store expansion programs shunning Appleton because of a deteriorating street and problems that accompany such a situation.

Now is the time for responsible governmental officials, merchants, property owners and the general public to give all-out support to downtown rejuvenation—giving College Avenue a "new look" that will attract people to the central city and eliminate traffic congestion problems of long standing.

To maintain its fine reputation as a good place to live, work, shop and do business, Appleton must continue to be a leader—not a follower.

Sympathy for India Not Enough

The visit of Prime Minister Indira Ghandhi of India to the United States and her conferences with President Johnson were primarily aimed at developing a personal relationship between the two leaders which could be used later to assist in organizing national policies. Apparently in this way her trip was very successful and Americans have been impressed by her restraint, her frank understanding of the vast problems that confront her nation and even the United States' difficulties in Viet Nam. But despite the President's announcement of new funds and food for famine relief, India's plight for the next few years is serious indeed.

There are a number of reasons. Mrs. Ghandhi especially blamed two droughts, the Chinese pressure on the mountain borders and the war with Pakistan. But the reasons go far deeper. Despite the billions in aid India has received, primarily from the United States, it is barely keeping its standard of living from falling and this year's food shortage will mean thousands will die of starvation. Birth control programs have not yet been much of a success nor have efforts to improve agricultural methods. There have been serious uprisings in several provinces due to local antagonism to language, religion or custom. The fanaticism of religious groups has not disappeared. The need for immense amounts of capital is tremendous.

Entirely aside from the point of view of compassion for suffering human beings, the United States has a large stake in India's success as a nation. The other mighty Asian nation is Communist China and while it has not yet solved its massive economic problems any better than has India, it has made some improvements. It may be far more important than our military success in Viet Nam for India to be able to progress as a parliamentary democracy as far as the future of other Asian nations is concerned. The "domino" theory of collapse to communism is more likely to apply in Asia if other governments are unable to meet the tremendous needs of their people. So far Indonesia has failed and Japan and Formosa have succeeded with American aid. Other nations like South Korea, Thailand and Malaysia are struggling.

We have been critical of some political stands by Indian leaders in the past because they did not follow our own ideas. And yet there has been ample reason for India to try to walk the tightrope between Communist nations and the free world. It needed all the time possible to try to improve its economy. And when the tightrope slipped and India became embroiled not only with its traditional enemy, Pakistan, but with the Red Chinese, things fell apart in a hurry.

The solution to India's problems will not be easy. Since she took office, Mrs. Ghandhi has been so plagued with sudden crises that needed immediate attention that any long range policy changes have had to wait. Great gifts of money alone will not help because India must learn to use help in the best possible way and to encourage capital investments. But it is important to the United States that India progress.

Rhodesia Survives Embargo

BY RICHARD F. NEWCOMB
AP Newsfeature Writer

Economic warfare is seldom dramatic, and seldom decisive, but it can arouse violent passions.

The tighter Britain turns the economic screws on Rhodesia, the more Rhodesia determines never to succumb.

The warfare began last Nov. 11, the day Prime Minister Ian Smith declared Rhodesia independent of Britain. Rhodesia is the size of California, a landlocked country in the heart of Africa, with 4 million black Africans and 225,000 whites. The whites developed the country and rule it, and that is the rock upon which the union with Britain foundered. Prime Minister Smith's government refused to provide for eventual rule by the blacks.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson of Britain vowed to bring Rhodesia to its knees, by economic ostracism. He froze Rhodesian bank accounts in England, prohibited trade, and cut off oil shipments. But Rhodesia did not fall.

RICH COUNTRY

Rhodesia is a rich country, in minerals, in agriculture, in trade. But it has no petroleum. Its crude oil came in by pipeline from Beira, in Portuguese Mozambique, a 185-mile haul to Umtali, site of Rhodesia's only refinery. The British believed it could strangle Rhodesia by plane and warship patrol off Beira, frightening tankers away.

But oil is still pouring into Rhodesia. Not by pipeline, but by truck, railroad tank car, drum and jerry can. Most of it comes from South Africa, a spontaneous outpouring from white friends. The South African government, and the big oil companies, are not officially involved. The oil companies have pledged to Britain that they will not increase shipments to South Africa above normal. But Rhodesia needs only 1 per cent of South Africa's supplies and that can be siphoned off easily enough without damage to South Africa's needs. Enough oil is getting through to keep Rhodesia out of serious trouble.

Banking and trade curbs are also of questionable value. Rhodesia is busily mining its gold and sitting on it, waiting for the day it can be exported (and with strong expectations that the value of gold will continue to rise.) Its frozen bank assets are freely accepted in some trade quarters as collateral for current loans. Its sugar is being bartered for wheat.

Tobacco is Rhodesia's most important export, accounting for $100 million in trade annually. This year the annual auctions, now underway, are being held in secret. Britain is normally the largest buyer for the fine Virginia leaf. Reports are that France will be a big buyer this year, and even some British interests, buying through foreign subsidiaries.

That leaves food, but Rhodesia is eating well. It grows most of its own food, though for a while there was a shortage of corn flakes. A Rhodesian firm is now putting out something called "Crunchies." And there is so much Scotch in stock that a price war is on.

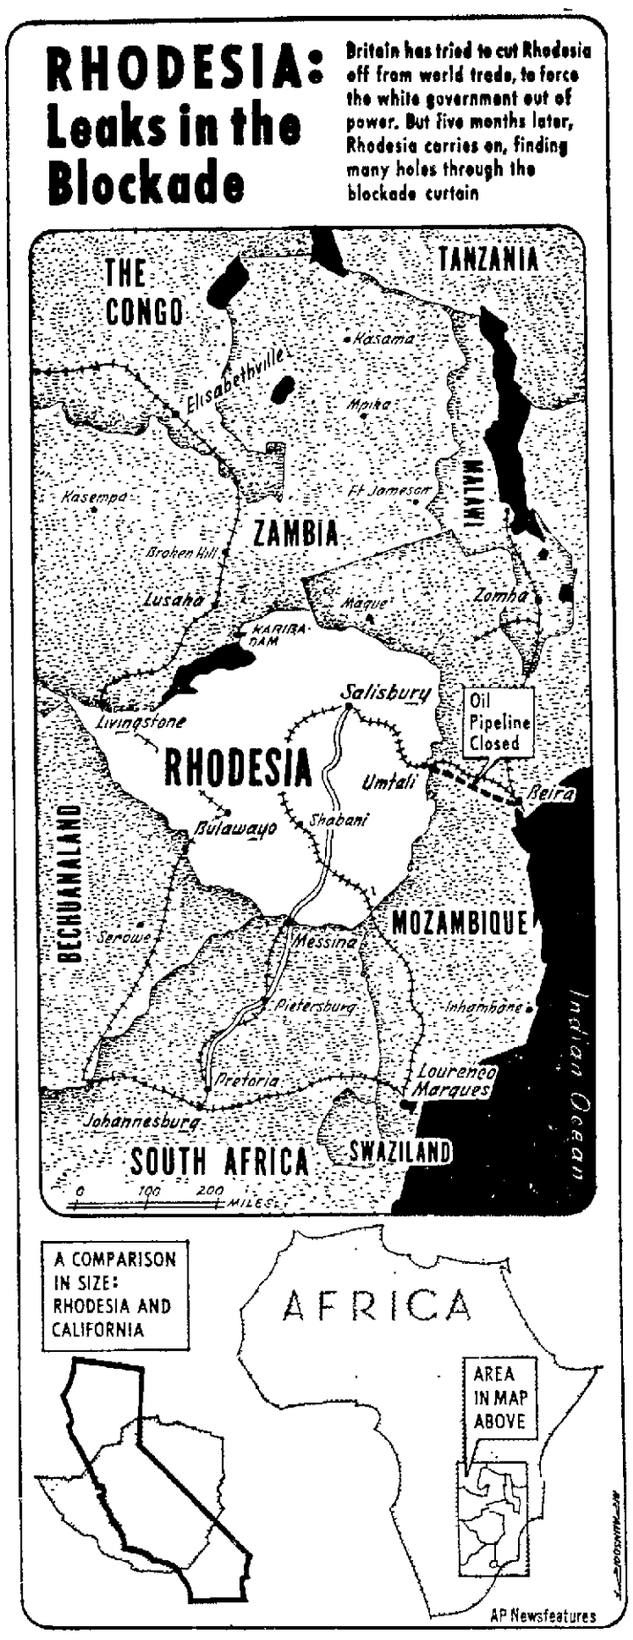

TWO-EDGED WEAPON

And embargo is a two-edged weapon. Zambia, to the north of Rhodesia and also landlocked, is the world's largest exporter of copper. The copper used to move to the coast by railroad, through Rhodesia, but Rhodesia closed off that traffic. This comes at a time of world copper shortage and rising prices. Zambia needs the copper income, and it also needs Rhodesian coal, electric power, food and oil. Britain and the United States are flying oil into Zambia, but at a cost of $2.80 a gallon for transportation. Even so, Zambia is getting only a fifth of her daily needs.

The United States, backing Britain, has cut off almost all trade with Rhodesia. This hurts Rhodesia, in things like tires, tractors and auto parts. But it also hurts the United States, which gets half its chrome from Rhodesia.

If economics cannot settle the struggle, will it move to shooting war or the conference table? The black African republics are not strong enough for war, and Britain would certainly be reluctant, therefore negotiation seems inevitable. When they might come is another question. Tempers are hot at the moment, but pressures are working on both parties for reconciliation.

Prime Minister Smith has declared that Rhodesia is prepared to negotiate, but not from weakness, and still pays allegiance to Queen Elizabeth II. If economic warfare fails, the next move will be Britain's.

Curbing of Political Advertising Handicap To Party Fund Raising

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The new federal law which has the effect of repealing the Internal Revenue Service acceptance of corporate space buying in political party publications as a deductible business expense is a harsh blow to the budget plans of both Wisconsin political parties.

Wyngaard

Such matters are not reported in detail by the party headquarters, but it is a reasonable guess that in recent campaigns such income has amounted to up to 20 per cent of the high and rising costs of political promotion by the Republicans and the Democrats.

These are resourceful men, and it may be expected that they will devise some alternatives. But the next effect nevertheless, is likely to make fund raising somewhat more difficult and to hold down expenditures to some degree. Conceivably it may handicap the parties in the most effective representation of their cause in an era of high communications costs. But there may be some serious men in both parties who will feel relieved that a highly dubious definition of "advertising" and a circumvention of one of the most fundamental prohibitions of the Wisconsin elections code have at long last been abandoned.

CORPORATE GIVING

Wisconsin law for half a century has had a literal and absolute prohibition of political campaign contributions by corporations, for obvious reasons that have never been seriously disputed since the rule was incorporated in the earliest of the state's political practices restrictions.

As far as the record shows, that prohibition was upheld for many years. In became common and was adopted by both political parties only half a dozen years ago. It was legitimatized by the interpretation of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service that a corporation could legally deduct such expenditures as tax exemptions, because they represented business advertising and promotion. Under such circumstances, the state law against corporate giving to parties and candidates became largely inoperative. Scores of corporations were listed as political contributors for the first time, but their checks were written for "advertising" in puff booklets for candidates, for limited circulation programs at conventions, party rallies, testimonial dinners, and in the case of the state Republican Party during the last few years, a so-called "Almanac" of limited usefulness.

These were political contributions, with only a handful of exceptions as surely as would be the personal checks written by officers of those corporations. It was a tongue-in-cheek circumlocution indulged by both political parties, with the excuse that competition required such pretense.

THE DANGER

Critical commentaries have been written about the practices of selling such "advertising" to national government contractors who may or may not have been willing to pay out the amounts asked, but who could not gracefully decline when solicited, and in any event could write off such gratuities as business expenses and tax deductible.

The same risk of illegitimate solicitation existed on a lesser scale in Wisconsin, although mention of the possibility should not be interpreted as a suggestion that shady practices have existed here.

The highway construction company, the general construction company bidding on state contracts, equipment and materials suppliers, even insurance or banking corporations subject to the daily regulation and scrutiny of state officials, conceivably might hesitate to decline space in a booklet being sold by agents of a state administration. At the least, the new federal law has reduced the temptations of the politicians in a time of desperately hard competition.

Land Grant Question Settled

100 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Motor for March 29, 1866.

The legislature finally settled the Land Grant question on Tuesday evening.

It established the (railroad) route as follows: From Portage via Ripon to Stevens Point, and thence in a straight line to Bayfield. The bill also establishes a branch line from Fond du Lac to Ripon, to be completed with the main line, and memorializes Congress to pass an act before the 4th of March next, changing the route to which the grant is made so as to correspond with the action of the Legislature.

The Doty's Island Bill, executing a portion of this grant to a road from Doty's Island to Stevens Point, also was reported back in the Committee of the Whole.

The time for locating the lands was restricted to three years instead of five, as provided by the original bills. Both bills were ordered to a third reading, and passed by a vote of 90 to 2. Those voting "no" were Messrs. Carpenter and Marsden.

In the Doty's Island Bill is a provision prohibiting any consolidation with the North Western Railway.

Court Aids Fight to Ban Filth

Editor, Post-Crescent:

Your editorials have often made the point that it is to no avail to prevent the sale of obscene literature because of a decision of the Supreme Court a few years ago.

However, this past week this same court rendered a far-reaching decision giving local and state officials a powerful new weapon in the battle against the sale of such books and magazines. I refer to the decision against one Ralph Ginzburg which—thank goodness—sends this man to prison. From now on if a seller made "a business of pandering to the widespread weakness for titillation by pornography" he violates the constitution and is therefore guilty.

I am sure all decent-minded Post-Crescent readers will expect you to promptly begin a drive to rid the book and magazine shelves of their filth literature posthaste. Surely, now you and the people have the courts on their side.

History Repeats Itself In Viet Nam Protests

Editor, Post-Crescent:

If I may address myself to reason, in this world of hysteria, I hazard the danger of being misunderstood as a partisan in this surcharged political ballgame of foreign relations—which I am not, as I present observations and comparisons.

I look upon the present growing signs of impatience of groups of people in the U.S. and elsewhere around the world—I wouldn't say the people as a whole—voicing and parading in protest against U. S. involvement in Viet Nam—as another fact that history repeats itself.

A cursory review of the pre-American revolutionary and Civil War periods show identical displays of both hysteria and apathy; irritation of the disturbance of selfcomplacency among the masses, as to the dark clouds on the horizon. George Washington saw the growing 'enslavement' of the Colonies by British hunger for power and taxation. Abraham Lincoln saw the danger of disruption of the Union by predatory elements of the commonwealth succeeding in their purpose to spread slavery throughout the states.

Both Washington and Lincoln faced the apathy of the majority, and the vocal cries and curses of the mob — and fought almost alone to save the precious liberty and freedom of the masses — finally to set up a democratic government, which Lincoln said was "the last great hope for the world;" a demonstration that everwhere "Government of the people, for the people, and by the people should not perish from the earth."

Today it is so soon—rather so lately that we the U.S. have inherited the position of the power in world politics, and—thank God—have applied the principle of liberty and freedom in our struggle against the 'wildfire' of atheism, out to destroy these sacred tenets.

Therefore — history repeating itself — again we are witnessing the orderly, and disorderly mobs — here and elsewhere in the world, vocal and rabid against the U.S. championing the underlings in their struggle for liberty and freedom.

Is it too much to ask that we, as citizens of a Christian nation, and with faith that those who direct our destinies —the President above all—be granted the faith and prayers that our aid to the weak who too seek the right of liberty, be finally resolved, as we, with God's help, crush the godless in their dedicated purpose to enslave the world?

Could Fullerton Racial Incident Happen Here?

Editor, Post-Crescent:

That was a shocking story on the front page of Thursday's Post-Crescent, about how prolonged harassment in the town of Fullerton, California, finally drove some white parents to give up adoption of the Negro baby they and their children had come to love, and denied this child the right to a good home. As you said in your headline, it was "Victory for Bigots." One had only to hear this mother on TV to realize that she had been brought to the verge of a nervous breakdown. Will nationwide publicity allow this case to rest as a triumph for anonymous threateners, garbage-throwers and dealers in petty cruelties? Not if communities across the land, including ours of the Fox Valley, are moved to ask themselves, "Could this happen here? How might it be prevented?"

In such a situation, a family should be able to call upon the inter-related leadership groups to speak out with one voice against these techniques of cowardly intimidation. If the Mayor and City Council, the editors of the local press, the Council of Churches and ministers in their individual pulpits, the educational, civic and business leaders who do not want their town downgraded in the eyes of the rest of the state and nation—even the governor—had taken a stand for love and justice, a tragic outcome might have been averted.

Hopefully, the Fox Valley Human Rights Council and all the above-mentioned groups, together with the many concerned individuals in our area, may in the course of time, by the simple expedient of talking to one another, lay a broad foundation of understanding so that such things will not happen here.

Board of Directors,
Fox Valley Human Rights Council.

Secret Agent Again Tops TV Lineup

BY TV SCOUT

7:30-8:30 (Channels 2-12) — Secret Agent again has an arresting and absorbing episode. Hero John Drake is in the Caribbean trying to prevent a revolution. At first he thinks his enemy is a 70-year-old maverick, who is willing to shoot his way to power. His friend (he thinks) is the old man's aide, pretty Lelia Goldoni, whom he meets on the sly. But when the maverick is shot, Drake gets the blame.

4-5:30 (Channels 11-9) — Wide World of Sports features the world's top skiers with glimpses of "The Harriman Cup—Slalom Races" in Sun Valley, Idaho.

6:30-7 (Channels 4-5) — Flipper is in big trouble with "Deep Waters." Porter and Ulla are stranded in her submarine after it snaps its propeller on the coral ocean bottom, 150 feet down. The couple is so convinced their dolphin pal will alert topsiders that they use up their limited air chatting about Swedish dinners and playing cards. (Color)

7-7:30 (Channels 4-5; 8-8:30 Channel 7) —"My Master, the Thief" on I Dream of Jeannie once more prompts the agitated astronaut Tony to groan, "Why couldn't I have found a nice normal every day male genie?" Jeannie is up to her scatter brained feminine tricks.

* * *

7:30-8 (Channels 4-5-7) — Get Smart begins a two-parter, "Ship of Spies," which has Agents 86 and 99 afloat on a freighter suspected of carrying a KAOS killer with the stolen plans of a nuclear anphibian battleship. Also aboard are 800 monkeys, eager to gobble up 20 tons of bananas, and the chop-chop sounds of some mysterious walker. (Color)

8-10 (Channels 4-5) — Saturday Night at the Movies presents "Off Limits," which once more has Bob Hope in uniform. In this scrappy 1953 Paramount comedy, Hope joins the Army on the urging of his mobster partner (Marvin Miller), to protest their "investment"—a boxer.

8:30-9:30 (Channels 11-6-9) — Martha Raye, recently named an honorary lieutenant colonel for her front line entertainment in Viet Nam, is in command of The Hollywood Palace. It's a rowdy and patriotic session, with Martha throwing kisses and songs to the troops and introducing morale builders like Sgt. Barry Sadler, who sings his "Ballad of the Green Beret." (Color) meet the conditions. In Chicago, Wolfe agreed the railroads would not conduct reprisals against individual workers. "We feel that these men were misled by the union officers," Wolfe said.

Injunctions Sought

But Wolfe said it would be up to each railroad president to decide about possible court action. His mention of pending litigation referred, an aide explained, to injunctions and contempt citations sought by the carriers.

Gilbert said Wolfe's reply to the union offer "has deficiencies It leaves something to be desired."

Wolfe, asked for comment on Gilbert's reaction to his telegram, said: "He went about half as far as I expected him to I think that is very encouraging."

The railroad spokesman said Central of Georgia asked federal court in Brunswick, Ga., to assess $225,000 in damages against the union for each day of the strike and also asked, in a separate action, that the union be held in contempt.

Railroad Action

The Seaboard Air Line Railroad filed a contempt suit in Birmingham, Ala., federal court. A Union Pacific spokesman said his company is considering a damage suit because the strike costs the line $1 million a day.

Wolfe, asked if he thought other railroads would file damage suits, said: "Obviously they have been damaged The costs will equal or exceed $3.5 million a day as long as the strike continues. It is safe to say that all the damaged railroads have the right to seek recovery."

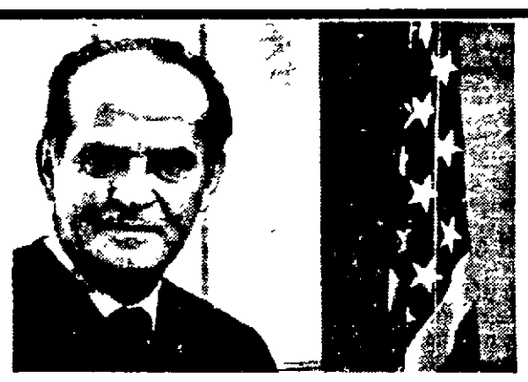

The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized non-struck railroads to reroute their traffic and made it possible for trucks and buses to meet transportation needs.

Today in History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Saturday, April 2, the 92nd day of 1966. There are 273 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1917, President Woodrow Wilson asked Congress to declare war against Germany. Wilson told a joint session of Congress: "The world must be made safe for democracy."

On this date

In 1792, the establishment of the U S. Mint was authorized by Congress.

In 1805, the Danish author of fairy tales, Hans Christian Andersen, was born.

In 1872, Samuel F.B. Morse, the inventor of the telegraph, died in New York City.

In 1945, American troops swept inland on Okinawa after carrying out the largest amphibious operation of the Pacific war.

Ten years ago — Alfred P. Sloan Jr., 80, retired as chairman of the board of General Motors Corp.

Five years ago—Vice President Lyndon B Johnson was on his first overseas mission under President John F. Kennedy

One year ago — President Johnson presided over a meeting of the National Security Council which decided to increase U S. military and economic aid to South Viet Nam in its war against the Viet Cong source, that they have been well planned and are as well organized as any that have ever taken place in Viet Nam.

Meanwhile, an anti-Communist youth group composed mostly of catholic students distributed leaflets in Saigon today, criticizing a predominantly Buddhist student organization for holding an anti-government demonstration Thursday.

Aiding Viet Cong

The leaflets asserted that Thursday's demonstration kept busy a large number of police, and said that while authorities were thus occupied, the Viet Cong were able to complete their plans for Friday's bombing of a U.S. officer's billet.

There is a feeling, especially in the official U.S. community, that the chances of survival for the present military government may depend on whether the current protests remain scattered and relatively isolated.

The demonstrations have caused concern among American officials both in Viet Nam and Washington.

U.S Consul Samuel B Thompsen warned Americans in Da Nang to avoid crowds and stay off the streets as much as possible.

Noted Russian Writer Attacks Anti-Red Books

NEW YORK (AP) — The Soviet Union's most famous living writer, Nobel Prize winner Mikhail Sholokhov, has thrown his prestige into the Communist party's battle against nonconforming, antiparty writers.

His speech to the 23rd congress of the party in Moscow Friday invoked mother, home, patriotism and the sacredness of the Russian language to assail such rebellious writers as Andrei D Sinyavsky and Yuli M Daniel They were sentenced to labor camps in February for smuggling anti-Communist writings out of the country

Sholokhov drew on the rich vocabulary of Russian invective to denounce the two writers, whom he did not mention by name, as everything from scribblers and rascals to turncoats and traitors

Burmese Reds Lure Girls Into Jungles

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — Communist guerrillas and other rebel groups are luring away students — including teen-age girls — into the jungles, the government-owned Guardian newspaper reported today.

Twenty nine students, including four girls, have been captured by government troops in encounters with the rebels.

Minor Flood Predicted on Mississippi

LA CROSSE (AP) — A new crest with only minor flooding is forecast on the Mississippi River next week as the Chippewa River rises.

The Chippewa, which flows into the Mississippi near Pepin, was expected to crest at 11.5 feet upstream at Durand Sunday or Monday. That level would be six inches over flood stage.

The U.S. Weather Bureau's river specialist at Minneapolis, Joseph Strub, said the swollen waters draining from the Chippewa would push the Mississippi up to a foot over flood stage here Wednesday.

La Crosse's flood level is 12 feet.

At Winona, Minn., a crest was forecast at half a foot above banktops Tueseday or Wednesday. Downstream at Prairie du Chien, the Mississippi crest was expected to stay two feet below flood level when it arrives April 10.

The Chippewa at Durand was measured this Thursday at 5 5 feet, six feet below its expected crest next week. The Mississippi was at 10.5 feet here.

A Judge For All . . .

While the endorsement support which has been offered me by a number of attorneys who would like to see me elected as County Judge is very much appreciated, I have declined their offer of sponsorship of an advertisement on my behalf I believe it to be in the public interest that our county judge and county court not be placed in the position where, at a later time, even the slightest question might be raised in cases which may come before the court that an endorsing attorney may have been favored as compared with an attorney who chose to remain neutral.

The very essence of our system of justice is that courts are established to further the interest of justice of all of the people. Alliances should not be formed by one group of members of the legal profession for the election of a judge which could, in any way, work to the detriment of other attorneys and their clients.

Further, it will be of interest to you to know that the Outagamie County Bar Association, which has 108 attorneys as members, has made it an official policy that the Bar Association in its official capacity should not go on record endorsing one judicial candidate for office in preference to another. Where a group of attorneys, whether by solicitation or otherwise, allows their names to be used in support of a judgeship, they are in effect defeating indirectly what the County Bar Association, through its Executive Committee of distinguished lawyers, has deemed it inadvisable to be a policy of the County Bar.

Lawyers are in and out of court frequently. Occasionally important rights and the very lives of individuals are at stake. We ought not in any election campaign, be parties to an effort which could prove embarrassing to the attorney where important decisions must be made by the court and rights of clients could be adversely affected.

The county judge should be a judge of all of the people by their own voluntary choice. The decision on my part to decline public endorsement support by attorneys was not an easy one. However, I felt it was a necessary one. The public confidence in our judiciary goes to the very foundation of our representative form of government in which the people are the final determinors as to who shall serve them.

I ask for your personal support as our County Judge on Tuesday, April 5.

Lindblad, Wyatt Stop Astros; Mets Score 4 to 1 Triumph Over Chicago's White Sox

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

Alvin Dark, Charley Finley, a mule and a bunch of guys named Joe.

That's what the Kansas City Athletics had going for them until Paul Lindblad, one of the anonymous A's, stepped out of character and into the baseball spotlight Friday night.

Lindblad, a 24-year-old lefthander, teamed with relief specialist John Wyatt for the second no-hitter of the exhibition season as Kansas City blanked the Houston Astros 4-0.

The no-hitter came four days after Bob Veale and Luke Walker of Pittsburgh held the Los Angeles Dodgers hitless

Lindblad worked the first six innings, retiring 11 straight batters before issuing a walk to Jim Wynn and then setting down the last seven he faced. Wyatt walked two and was helped by a diving catch by Bert Campaneris in his three-inning stint.

Posts 12-11 Record

Last year Lindblad had a 12-11 record with Vancouver before joining the A's late in the season. He made four relief appearances for Kansas City and wound up with an earned run average of 11.57. Wyatt pitched in 65 games, all in relief, and was 2-6 with a 3 24 ERA.

Robin Roberts, added to the Astros' roster earlier in the day, took the loss although yielding only two hits in six innings. One of the hits off the 39-year-old right-hander, biggest winner among active pitchers, was a two-run homer by Bill Bryan in the second.

Larry Stahl closed out the scoring with another two-run homer in the eighth.

The New York Mets, last-place counterpart of the A's in the National League, whipped the Chicago White Sox 4-1 behind the strong pitching of rookie southpaws Rob Gardner and Dick Rusteck.

Gardner blanked the Sox on one hit over the first six innings A four-run fourth inning, touched off by Ken Boyer's double, sent the Mets to their third straight victory.

The San Francisco Giants rested half their team for a weekend exhibition series with the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Cleveland Indians wore out the other half 13-3, scoring 10 runs in the fifth inning off Ron Herbel and Lindy McDaniel

Jim Landis sparked the Indians' 15-hit attack with two doubles and a triple. Willie Mays and Willie McCovey were among 11 Giants who had the day off.

Marcelino Lopez hurled seven shutout innings, allowing only three hits, as California

Baseball Hobbyist Becomes State's Wind-Up Witness

Bruton Devises 11-Team Slate; Defense Raises Strong Objection

By KEN HARTNETT

MILWAUKEE (AP) — A Phillies' rooter with baseball in his blood and schedules on his mind has slipped into Wisconsin's late-inning lineup, and baseball attorneys are hollering foul

Alfred A. Bruton III, 33, of Linnwood, Pa., was ducking the high hard ones after Judge Elmer Roller allowed him to testify Friday on the 11-team schedule he devised for the now 10-team National League.

Bruton, an automobile salesman, was the final state witness in the trial of Wisconsin's antitrust suit against the Braves and the National League. The month-old trial was expected to end sometime today with a ruling by Roller likely before April 12, baseball's opening day.

"Just because he has a hobby doesn't make him an expert," said Bowie Kuhn, National League attorney, after Bruton told of spending 20 to 25 hours a week drawing mock schedules.

"I spend 24 hours a week at golf," said Earl Jinkinson, Braves' attorney, "and I still can't play."

11-Team League

Bruton was put on the stand to demonstrate that a schedule could be worked out that would allow baseball to create an 11-team league by granting Milwaukee an expansion franchise.

The defense insisted that Bruton could not be classed as an expert witness and had no business on the stand.

When Roller allowed him to testify, Kuhn complained that "a double standard is being applied in this court."

Kuhn contended that Roller was not allowing the defense to present "opinion" testimony but was lowering the bars for the state.

"You may have your opinion," Roller replied. "But I want to say I can see a wide

Tom Weiskopf, Sanders Lead At Greensboro

Both Have 135 After Second Round; Geiberger Third

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Young Tom Weiskopf, who hated golf until eight years ago, and short-swinging Doug Sanders were tied for the lead as the $100,000 greater Greensboro Open moved into the third round today.

Weiskopf, 23, a fledgling pro seeking his first major tournament victory, played flawless golf from tee to green Friday as he shot a four under par 67 for a 135 total.

Sanders, who led the first round with 65, finished nearly four hours after Weiskopf and had to birdie the 17th hole to gain a tie. His 70 included three birdies and two bogies.

"I've played so damned many good rounds it's hard to keep fired up every day," Sanders said

In third place at 136 was lanky Al Geiberger, who one-putted seven greens on his way to a 70 Friday.

Tied for fourth at 137 were Dave Ragan, R. H. Sikes and Steve Reid Ragan and Reid had 68s and Sikes 69.

Three strokes off the pace at 138 were defending champion Sam Snead, Howie Johnson, Terry Dill and Terry Wilcox, Julius Boros, Joe Campbell and Bery Yancey were at 139.

It took 147 to survive the cut-off with 75 players making it.

Weiskopf, who caddied a few times for Jack Nicklaus when the two were students at Ohio State, hit every green in regulation Friday but had 34 putts. His 33-34 round included four birdies

Weiskopf, whose parents are good golfers, said, "I hated golf until I was 15." It was while caddying that he took a liking to the game

Weiskopf, who finished second in the San Diego Open this year, originally planned to pass up the Greensboro Open. He pulled out of the Citrus Open at Orlando, Fla., after the first round and went home to visit his parents in Bedford, Ohio.

"I was tired of playing," he said H e planned to resume play in the Texas Open later this month but changed his mind and entered the Greensboro the day before the deadline.

Calls Recess In Ring Probe

U.S. Attorney Says Publicity Damages The Investigation

CHICAGO (AP) — A federal grand jury investigating alleged criminal inroads in boxing recessed Friday but was expected to resume its activity in about a week.

Edward V. Hanrahan, U.S. attorney conducting the probe, said Friday the grand jury had resorted to a "routine session." Most observers felt this was done to take the public spotlight off the investigation.

The grand jury heard testimony from two reputed Chicago gangsters and six New York fight figures Wednesday, and on Thursday Bernard Glickman, Chicago businessman and former fight manager, was brought to the hearing

Glickman, who has been in FBI custody since early February after an alleged beating triggered the investigation with his report to federal agents

Glickman reportedly testified of gangster attempts to muscle in on the Cassius Clay-Ernie Terrell heavyweight championship bout which never was held.

Walks Out

Hanrahan, who has been at odds with members of the press, radio and television over coverage of the investigations, walked out on his personally scheduled news conference late Friday.

Hanrahan said the investigation had been damaged by publicity and added that names of grand jury witnesses should not be disclosed so that "witnesses know they can appear secure in the knowledge that neither their presence nor their testimony can ever properly be disclosed without court order."

76ers' Schayes Honored In Poll of Coaches

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Dolph Schayes of the Philadelphia 76ers has been named National Basketball Association coach of the year in a poll of NBA coaches conducted by the Sporting News.

In his third season as coach of Philadelphia, Schayes guided the 76ers to the Eastern Division title with a 55-25 record, breaking the nine-year division domination of the Boston Celtics.

Practice Ordered for Defending Champs; Lakers Top St. Louis

BOSTON (AP) — Boston turned its attention toward Philadelphia today without taking time to enjoy its comeback victory over the Cincinnati Royals in the National Basketball Association's Eastern division semi-final playoff

Victorious Coach Red Auerbach ordered a practice session, declining to give his players a day off despite the tough series with the Royals that closed Friday night with Boston scoring a 112-103 victory in the fifth and final game.

Meanwhile, the Los Angeles Lakers trounced the St. Louis Hawks 129-106 and took a 1-0 lead in the best-of-seven Western Division final.

The Celtics swing right back into action Sunday when they open the best-of-seven division final playoff against Philadelphia and Wilt Chamberlain on the 76ers' court

Murcer, 19, Wins Yankee Shortstop Job

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Bobby Murcer, a 19-year-old who played for Greensboro in the Class A Carolina League last year, has won the regular shortstop job with the New York Yankees

"Kids like Bobby don't come along very often," said Yankee Manager Johnny Keane today "He's a hitter. He has played two years in the minors and his record is exceptional."

Murcer batted .365 for Johnson City, Tenn, in the Apalachian Rookie League in 1964 and had a .322 batting mark for Greensboro in 1965.

At the start of the training schedule, veteran Ruben Amaro was given the edge over Murcer for the regular shortstop position.

Kidd Has Surgery, Should be Ready For World Meet

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Billy Kidd, the nation's top skier, said Friday after an ankle operation "there is no doubt in my mind. I'll be ready for the world championships in August "

Kidd, 22-year-old University of Colorado sophomore from Stowe, Vt., underwent surgery on his ankle at St. Joseph's Hospital He will spend the weekend in the hospital and will be in a cast for four to six weeks.

Dr Charles Brown said the operation went well, but he was not as emphatic as Kidd that the skier would be in top form for the world ski races at Portillo, Chile, Aug. 4-14.

"We removed a tiny chip of cartilage from the capsule of the ankle joint," Dr Brown said, "but Bill's major problem was ligament instability. We did tendon repairs to tighten the ligaments."

Eagles' Baughan Traded to Rams for 2 Young Players

Maxie Joins Los Angeles' Beefed-Up Linebacker Corps

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Maxie Baughan, big linebacker of the Philadelphia Eagles, says he was jolted over being traded to the Los Angeles Rams even though he expected to leave the Eagles.

"After being with a club for six years, you start looking over your shoulder expecting something to happen," Baughan said Friday after the Eagles sent him to the Rams for two young linemen and an unspecified choice in next winter's player draft.

"If it's your time to go, you go, but it really hurts to leave a great gang of fellows and Philadelphia."

The 28-year-old Baughan was defense captain and one of the Eagles' most popular players.

Trades for Rookies

He was traded for tackle Frank Molden and linebacker Fred Brown, both National Football League rookies last year. Both started several games for Los Angeles when regulars were injured

Baughan, the Eagles' No. 1 linebacker, played in five Pro Bowl games since being drafted No. 2 by Philadelphia out of Georgia Tech.

Joe Kuharich, Eagles general manager and coach, said it was necessary to give up a player of Baughan's ability to get players of the type he thought could strengthen his defensive unit

Baughan is the third linebacker obtained by the Rams in the last eight days.

The other two are Jack Pardee, coaxed out of retirement, and Bill George, signed Thursday.

Coach George Allen said "I think we have repaired the linebacking weakness of last year."

Wendy Allen Wins First Two Runs

Huega Third in 'High Sierra' Men's Slalom

SOUTH LAKE TAHOE, Calif. (AP)—Wendy Allen of San Pedro, Calif., won the first of two women's runs and the French took a 1-2 lead in the men's competition Friday in the giant slalom races of the High Sierra Ski Cup.

The 21-year-old Miss Allen, older of two skiing sisters, rocketed through 44 gates in 1 minute, 36.85 seconds to beat Annie Famoso of France by almost three seconds.

France's olympic gold medalist, Marielle Goitschel of France, spun on the course and could do no better than fifth in 1:43.18 Jean Saubert of McCall, Idaho, hit a gate and came in ninth in 1:46.23 Canada's Nancy Greene was disqualified for missing gates

Killy Upset

The first run of the men's giant slalom was won by Georges Madut of France, who upset his favored countryman, Jean-Claude Killy, by less than a second. Jim Huega of Tahoe City, Calif., was third.

Madut zoomed through the 57 gates in 1:30 16 Killy, sensation of the European downhill season, was second in 1:30 95 Huega was clocked in 1:31 27.

Huega is America's chief hope with the sidelining of Billy Kidd of Stowe, Vt., by an ankle operation. U.S. Ski Coach Bob Beattie said Kidd will be back on skis in three months.

Bill Marolt of Aspen, Colo., was the only other man in the men's competition to finish in the top 10. He placed eighth in 1:37 10.

Savidge Ends 4-Month Hospital Stay

Princeton Captain Up Again

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The longest season — a four-month hospital stay — ended Friday for Princeton football captain Paul Savidge.

With his wife of less than a year at his side, as she has been daily since her husband was hospitalized with a broken neck last November, Savidge walked out of Princeton Hospital under his own power. He had spent four months in traction and the last week getting used to a bulky plaster cast. He hopes to return to classes in a week or two.

"I walked for the first time last Saturday," Savidge said "The first steps were a little shaky but I had been able to stand while in traction so my legs got some exercise.

"I have to sit like a West Point cadet in this thing — straight and rigid," he said with a smile.

"My movements are almost like what they call a 'square' meal — motions that parallel the sides of a square."

The cast weighs about 30 pounds. It circles Paul's torso, reaching from below the hips to the chin in front and almost to the top of the head in back. He'll have to wear it for several months and then switch to a metal brace for a while. After that there will be therapy to restore the neck muscles to full use.

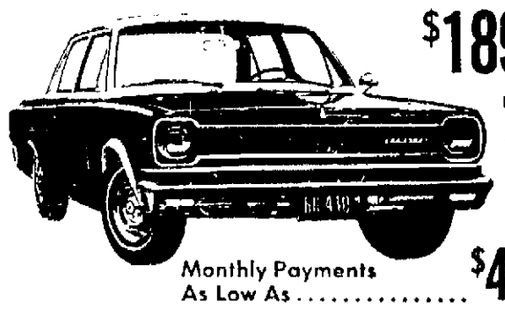

"The doctors hope it will eventually be well enough for normal use, but there probably won't be any more contact sports," Paul said. "There was a lot of discomfort in traction for a while but as long as I didn't move too much it wasn't too bad."

The stellar defensive tackle was injured making a tackle on Dartmouth's Mike Urbanic in the final game last season, which also snapped Princeton's 17-game winning streak.

During his hospital stay, Paul decided to forego a teaching-coaching career and try for medical school.

"I'll come back next year to take two courses. I'll need organic chemistry and physics," Paul said. "I'll try for medical school the following fall."

Schellhase Nips Wagnon In Point Race

NEW YORK (AP) — Sometime during his 26-game season, Dave Wagnon of Idaho State probably missed an easy lay-up. He definitely missed a couple of free throws.

And it was those two points that cost him the national major college basketball scoring championship.

Wagnon finished with an average of 32.50 points per game while Dave Schellhase of Purdue, the leader throughout the season, came in with a 32.54 average.

Thus the 6-foot-4 All-America won the closest individual scoring battle in major college history. He scored 781 points in 24 games compared with 845 in 26 contests for Wagnon.

Another All-America, Michigan's Cazzie Russell, was the only other player with more than 30 points a game. His final average was 30.8.

difference between the testimony of this witness and the witnesses you have mentioned here."

Bruton's opinions, the judge said, "will be considered for what they are worth."

The battery of defense lawyers opened up on Bruton at almost every turn.

At one point, Ray T. McCann objected to a Bruton comment as stupid.

Willard Stafford, special counsel for Wisconsin, turned his wrath on McCann. "Let him cross-examine the witness and see how stupid he is," Stafford shot back.

Bruton said he designed his schedule to give each team in the league a home date in the first week of the season. Delay makes fans restless to see their team in action, Bruton said.

"I object to the remark about people getting restless," said Jinkinson.

"I get restless," replied Bruton, who never played baseball professionally. He later told reporters that "baseball is just in my blood."

The National League has fought any suggestion of an 11-team league. Baseball officials have cited scheduling difficulties which would keep one team idle each day, depriving clubs of valued Sunday and holiday dates.

Bruton's plan would get around that objection through what he called split doubleheaders. The home team would play two different teams on one day. The first game would end one series; the second would start another.

The defense offered no specific objections to any of Bruton's scheduling ideas, saying they lacked an available schedule expert.

Bruton said he presented his schedule ideas to Fred Fleig, National League secretary and schedule maker, in 1962 and was invited to dinner and a ball game in Philadelphia that July.

Fleig introduced him to John Quinn, Philadelphia general manager and Charles S. (Chub) Feeney, San Francisco Giants' vice president. "He introduced me as the man he hoped would make up the schedule in 1963," Bruton said.

Complications later arose and Bruton never submitted a schedule.

Site Selection Method Altered By the ABC

Tourney Fees Are Hiked; Collegiate Division Created

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Site selection for American Bowling Congress tournaments has been assigned to a new 12-man committee in one of 16 amendments approved for the ABC Constitution.

The change, prompted by what officials said were financial losses experienced in past tournaments, was hotly debated before it was approved Friday by delegates to the ABC convention here.

At one point, delegates from Northern California walked out of the meeting. The California group hosted the ABC Tournament at Oakland in 1964.

In the past, the ABC Board of Directors has picked a site from bids submitted by various cities.

An ABC spokesman said rising costs of the tournaments led to a need for detailed study of proposed sites before a selection was made. The committee will visit the area, he said, to determine if facilities are adequate and if the tournament could be a success financially in a particular city.

Loses Money

The ABC lost money at Oakland and at the 1963 Buffalo tournament, the spokesman said.

The new rule eliminated a provision that the tournament be held in the Far West and Deep South at least once every 10 years.

In another change affecting the tournament, a proposal was approved to increase prize and expense fees from $6 to $7 per man per event.

The delegates approved creation of a new collegiate division of the ABC, with a separate awards and services program for it to be worked out in the coming months by ABC officials and college athletic groups.

Another amendment raised from 16 to 19 the minimum age for bowlers who compete for cash or merchandise prizes without parental consent.

A total of 1,029 delegates — considered a record turnout — attended the convention. They elected Matthew R. Bennie, a retired Washington production engineer, to a one-year term as ABC president. He succeeds Cecil Simpson of Tulsa, Okla.

Hansgen Hurt At Le Mans

20 Minutes Needed To Get Driver Out of Wreckage

LEMANS, France (AP) — American race driver Walt Hansgen was seriously injured today during practice for the 24 hour La Mans race when his Ford-Mark II went out of control and flipped end over end.

It took firemen about 20 minutes to chop, saw and pry Hansgen from the wreckage. Breathing but unconscious and covered with blood, Hansgen was rushed to the hospital in an ambulance.

Witnesses said they saw Hansgen's car start to skid just before a gradual turn at the end of the grandstand area. They said the car spun into an escape road and crashed against an earth embankment, which caused the car to flip over.

The seven-liter car entered by Shelby-American, Inc., was a complete wreck.

The accident happened while a soft rain was falling. Up to that time, the Le Mans veteran had chalked up the fastest time around the circuit. His time was three minutes, 50.3 seconds for an average of 130.8 miles an hour.

An Appleton Bowling program netted more than $800 for the Easter Seal campaign. Shown, from left, are Mrs. G. N. Uetzmann, chairman of the project; Chet Soley, co-chairman; Miss Joyce Weyenberg (Kaukauna), who won first prize with most pins over average; and Duane Kassube, president of the Appleton Bowling Association. New Hope in New Park

Angels' Blend of Veterans Young Players May Provide Surprise of '66

By BOB MYERS

PALM SPRNGS, Calif. (AP) — No baseball manager in his right mind would ever exude anything but optimism in the spring over the chances of a great season — a first division finish, and perhaps the pennant if the pieces fall into place.

Bill Rigney of the California Angels is no exception.

But it's quite possible Rigney has something more than usual going for him in the American League.

The former Los Angeles Angels are moving to Anaheim into a big, new ball park. In effect it is their park, removed by some 30 miles from Chavez Ravine, which was the affectionate designation the Angels employed for what was really Dodger Stadium.

"There is no question the players are reacting to the change in scenery which will give them an identity of their own, an image of their own," said Catcher Bob Rodgers.

Every one in Los Angeles loved the Angels since their arrival in 1961, but far too many loved the Dodgers more.

Contender Needed

Sentiment and popularity polls aside, the entire Angel organization from Gene Autry and Bob Reynolds on down through General Manager Fred Haney and Rigney know they must present a contender in 1966.

It appears the Angels may have one.

Rigney, in his 11th year as a major league skipper, admits he is a bit scared at the prospects because things look so good.

He feels he has outstanding pitching in Dean Chance, a former Cy Young Award winner, Fred Newman, George Brunet and Marcelino Lopez, who figure to be his rotation hurlers.

There is a strong bullpen in Bob Lee, Jack Sanford and Lew Burdette, and some even younger possibilities for starting or spot roles.

Most critics agree that the double play combination of Bobby Knoop and Jim Fregosi might be the best in the league, and with Kneep blossoming into a dangerous hitter, the twosome is even more valuable.

First baseman Joe Adcock is still a power at bat despite his 38 years, and the big fellow can now be spelled by another seasoned player, Norm Siebern.

Much the same situation prevails at third, with young Paul Schaal the glove man backed up by older Frank Malzone, late of the Boston Red Sox.

Rigney drools over his outfield, but points out that much of the success of the club depends on the long ball hitting of his younger people — Jack Warner, Rick Reichardt, Jose Cardinale and Ed Kirkpatrick.

Not to be discounted in the young movement, however, are Albie Pearson, Jimmy Piersall and Al Spangler, who represent the older set.

Bob Rodgers and Ed Bailey should make a formidable catching duo.

And the whole blend might well be the surprise of the season.

Skunk Hill Team Leads by 4 Games

Skunk Hill Bar (77-40), winning six of nine games, maintained its lead in the Valley Pool League's second round with only one night of action remaining.

Cork and Dine, winning nine games by forfeit, moved into second place with a 73-44 mark, while Techlin's (71-46), with seven of nine wins, slipped to third.

George Signs With Rams After Release

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Rams — no content with one ex-Chicago Bear on the payroll — have signed veteran linebacker Bill George.

George, 35, was released from the Bears by owner-coach George Halas to negotiate for what Halas said was a coaching job.

But Thursday night, Rams' Coach George Allen said he had signed the 14-year National Football League veteran to a playing contract.

Allen said there "is no question about his (George's) playing" and said he was in fine shape.

"He's a leader, a defensive captain who spent many years in Chicago. That type of experience is invaluable," Allen said.

George played most of the 1964 season for the Bears but a knee injury kept him out of the last six games. In 1965 he played five exhibition games and two league games before a recurrence of the knee injury forced him back on the reserve list.

Easter Seal Pin Meet Nets $800 for Cause

The Easter Seal benefit bowling tournament conducted at establishments throughout Outagamie County raised over $800 for the Easter Seal campaign, according to Mrs. Leone Uetzmann, tournament chairman.

Joyce Weyenberg, Little Chute, took the grand prize of $25 by hitting 174 pins over her average in three games of league bowling.

Second place went to Joy Buhrandt, Appleton, 142 pins over average and third was a tie between Ruby Tuchscherer, Appleton and Lillian Leisgang, Seymour.

A total of 126 bowlers shared in the cash prizes and there were a number of merchandise awards presented as well. The cash prizes ranged from the high of $25 to $1.

scoring exploits of Sam Jones that brought the Celtics from an eight-point deficit in the first quarter to a second period lead they never lost.

"Sam's shooting is what did it. Sam and John Havlicek."

Jones wound up with 34 points, getting 24 in the first half to lead Boston's rally. Havlicek had 23 points, taking over the shooting chores when Jones was lifted in the second period for a rest.

Auerbach also felt Cincinnati's failures helped Boston's cause considerably.

"We didn't see a great rebounding Lucas," he said in reference to the big forward, Jerry Lucas, who played with an injured knee.

"Lucas played his usually good game on offense," Auerbach said. "In fact he made a couple of great offensive moves. But he wasn't rebounding like he can, and we were lucky Adrian Smith wasn't up to par."

Smith, the hero of the first Cincinnati victory in the series, was taken out of the final game early. Coach Jack McMahon said he lifted Smith for Tom Hawkins because he wanted to get more height.

McMahon felt the game was lost early in the fourth quarter when Boston's lead was cut, 90-84.

"Boston was missing its shots," he said. "They obviously were jittery. We had a great chance to make up the six points. But Russell made a key block on Hawkins, and Boston went down to score and that was it."

The block by defensive ace Bill Russell led to a basket by Larry Seigfried, making the score 92-84 and giving Boston a much needed lift.

McMahon believes the tough semifinal series will help Boston in its attempt to capture its eighth consecutive NBA championship.

Sam Jones said Philadelphia would be tough.

"I hope we have momentum and that they are a little stale after the layoff," he said. "We'll need every ad antage."

Jerry West and Elgin Baylor were the big guns for the home team Lakers, who outscored the Hawks 35-15 in the final period. West scored 28 points and Baylor 22. Zelmo Beaty and Richie Guerie scored 22 each for St. Louis.

The two teams play again Sunday in Los Angeles.

Contributions Lag in Red Cross Fund Drive

NEENAH - MENASHA — Contributions are lagging behind last year in the current drive of the Neenah-Menasha area Red Cross to raise a budget of $25,000 to continue its community services and to meet its traditional commitments to the American Red Cross.

Budgets locally are the same as last year.

While some divisions of the campaign haven't yet filed full reports, $5,000 needs to be raised yet in Neenah to meet its $15,000 goal, and $4,200 needs to be pledged in Menasha to meet its $10,173 budget. Neenah's commitment quota to the American Red Cross is $5,871. Menasha has been asked to give $4,469. These national quotas are based on population

Emergency Quota

In addition, the communities have been asked to raise an emergency quota of $1,980 to help rebuild the American Red Cross disaster funds and to help with the increasing needs to servicemen in Vietnam. National Red Cross asked Neenah to collect an additional $1,124 and Menasha $856. National has not made such an appeal for several years although its disaster funds have been depleted from $40 million to $2.7 million during the last three years Hurricane Betsy needs for families took $18 million alone.

American Red Cross has workers in five hospitals in South Vietnam and two on the USS Repose, hospital ship just off the Vietnamese coast. Other Far East hospitals affected are in the Philippines, Japan, Okinawa and Guam. Increased numbers of Red Cross workers to serve the U.S. Armed Forces in South Vietnam are needed.

Community Funds

Twin City area persons who have not yet sent in their contributions to Red Cross are asked to do so as soon as possible. Officials said any contributions, small and large will be appreciated so that local quotas can be met.

Sixty per cent of the funds collected remains in the Twin City community area to help finance local Red Cross services, one of which is the blood bank program. The blood banks make it possible for free blood to be given to Twin City residents who need it. On the basis of the amount of blood used at Theda Clark Memorial hospital last year, local residents have been saved nearly $10,000 because of the Red Cross blood bank program.

Neenah Red Cross provides $600 to the water safety and life-saving part of its program by contributing that amount to the recreation department to help pay for instructors.

Military Aid

Several thousand dollars is expended by Red Cross for service to military families locally. This money is given in grants and loans and aids to families of servicemen, to the servicemen themselves in case of emergency, to make telephone calls and send wires in connection with family emergencies when servicemen are in camps, bases or overseas. Because of the special and confidential nature of this service, paid secretaries, and specially trained volunteers handle this part of Red Cross service The secretary must be on call 24 hours a day and a telephone answering service must be paid for when the secretary has to be away from the office. Time is needed for investigations and for finding out answers needed for the Armed Services in specific cases.

Other local services include first aid and home nursing instruction classes, service to hospitals, service in times of disaster. While these services are manned by trained volunteers, equipment and supplies must be paid for. Hugh Gear Jr., of Neenah, has been directing an extensive first aid instruction program for several years among mill employees, adult groups, and young people's groups such as Brigade and Scouts and among church clubs or societies

Clinic Scheduled at Hospital for Diabetics

NEENAH — The Theda Clark Hospital cafeteria conference room will be the scene of diabetic clinics from 3 to 4 p m. April 4, 5 and 6

Conducting the program will be Mrs. Lise Skofronick, therapeutic dietician, and Mrs Evelyn Blenker, RN The meeting is open to diabetics, their friends and relatives.

Town Attorney Surprised at Judge's Action

Certiorari Writ Quashed at Oshkosh On Technicality

MENASHA — Town Attorney Everett Stecker reacted to the quashing of the town's writ of certiorari case against the city with amazement.

He said he had no idea Judge James V. Sitter was considering a quash because of a technical error in the writ.

The writ was struck down because it was addressed incorrectly to the City of Menasha, and not to the governing body of the city — the common council.

Stecker said this technicality had never been raised by either attorney in the hearings on the case. The judge, he said, should have allowed arguments by both attorneys prior to quashing on the grounds of the technicality.

"Left Field"

He said the judge was "out in left field" by ruling without consulting the attorneys first.

The writ of certiorari request was brought against the City of Menasha when it should have been brought against the common council of the City of Menasha, Judge Sitter ruled.

"The writ concerned the refusal of the common council to approve a plat in the town of Menasha on land owned by Carl Schwarzbauer. The council maintained that to approve the plat would require a rezoning and the council could not rezone the land since the Town of Menasha board had refused to name its members to an extraterritorial committee.

The council was in the process of purchasing the Schwarzbauer land for the city and subsequently completed the purchase

"Misdirection of the writ is fatal in that the court is without jurisdiction to review the decision mentioned in the writ," the judge said

A wri of certiorari is a request for a review by the court as to the legality of proceedings by a governmental body and enables aggrieved person to present a verified petition saying the decision was illegal, specifying the grounds of the illegality, which in this case was the failure to approve the plat.

Stecker said he didn't know what action the town would take on reopening the case.

City Attorney Richard Steffens has argued that the case is "moot" because Carl Schwarzbauer has sold the property to the city since the case was opened. This means the city can zone the land any way it wishes, he argues.

Rehabilitation House to Celebrate Anniversary

Dinner Program Planned April 20 in Menasha to Recognize Progress

NEENAH — Completion of two years of successful operation for Rehabilitation House, Inc., will be celebrated April 20, with a dinner at the Hotel Menasha.

Success has come to Rehabilitation House, Inc., its board of directors feel, because of the able, humane and consistent support of the citizens of Winnebago County. Since it opened its doors two years ago to make a home for the mentally handicapped, 42 residents have been served.

Some of these residents have found employment and enjoyment in Neenah and Winnebago County and others have returned to their home communities — both better prepared to meet the pressure of community living.

Volunteers Aid

Robert Gellert, director, attributes much of the success to the cooperation, encouragement, aid and volunteer participation from total community endeavor. Housewives, clergymen, businessmen and retired men and women have given generously to support our program, the director said "In truth, our home has become a community project This is as it should be. We realized from the start that if our home was to become a positive influence in the task of returning individuals to former productiveness, we would have to become a part of the community."

Many factors which led the residents of Rehabilitation House, Inc. into mental illness, or barred them from community life, still remain, however, according to the board of directors.

Find Employment

Placing residents in employment is a problem. Geller said they have found, as have the residents, that there are many hurdles to overcome before the business community will realistically accept the mentally handicapped as employes. Some feel that it places them in an uncompetitive position if they hire a handicapped person. This is sometimes based on negative experience.

"While it may require more supervision initially to train the mentally handicapped, one cannot overlook the fact that they are human beings and human beings need meaningful work," Geller said. "Then, there are those who won't even try to employ the mentally handicapped.

"Only a community with all of its resources at work can bring these people back into proper focus and productive," the director said

Nine Persons Vying for T-C School Board Posts

Two Incumbents Seek Re-election In Field of Five at Neenah

NEENAH — Two incumbents, Frank Hochholzer and Dr. John Wilson, seek re-election to the board of education Tuesday, and three additional candidates are scrambling to unseat them or fill the position vcated by Mrs. H R. Moore.

Frank Hochholzer

Mrs. Moore served as secretary of the board during her two terms and for most of that time headed the teacher and textbook committee

Despite the 16 years Frank Hochholzer, 159 Richard St., has served on the board of education, he seeks a sixth term with "enthusiasm and the unchanged belief that Neenah should have an educational system as good as it can afford. For the past four years I have served on the state resolution committee for the Wisconsin School Board Association and it has broadened my scope on education," he said

A staunch supporter through the years for Federal aid to education Hochholzer says that it now looks like there is more equal education for everyone. "While we have never had a serious problem in Neenah, we have to keep planning and working ahead. My special interests are in the building and financing of our schools and I hold the same interest in them today that I did my first year on the board."

Hopeful for a second term on the board is Dr. John Wilson, 750 South Park, who has given his services this past year as chairman of the finance committee. "It has taken me three years to learn about the intricacies of the complex job of commissioner and I feel that in two incumbents, a second term I could be more effective," Wilson said.

"I am confident the board has not been spendthrift in planning its budget. There is room for some improvements in the total education picture but we must not lose sight of the fact that there will be increased demands for money and improvements so we will not fall behind in answering future needs."

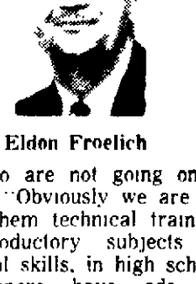

George Skowronski, Sugar Tree Lane, feels that it is the responsibility and civic obligation of each citizen to serve in public office He became interested in Neenah schools' curriculum during the reorganization of the school districts when he served as chairman of the curriculum committee.

George Skowronski

"I am primarily interested in the board of education's look at the future As a member of that body I would want to plan today's curriculum to adequately fit the needs 5 and 10 years from now." "Every effort should be made to pay our way as we go, and I think this can be done if we keep the citizens fully informed as to what we want, why we want it and how much it will cost."

Eldon Froelich, 734 Main St., expressed concern about the 50 per cent of high school graduates who are not going on to college "Obviously we are not giving them technical training, or introductory subjects on industrial skills, in high school. The papers have ads for machinists, toolmakers and the like continuously and they are not being filled. This part of the curriculum has to be built up." Froelich said his interest and experience in education stems from activities in PTA and what he wants for his own children.

Eldon Froelich

Mrs. J. C. Bletzinger, 617 Grove St., also expressed her interest in seeing that a good education was provided for her own children and for every other child in the district. "I think it is important to have people on the board who are interested in Neenah's present fine educational system, and who want it improved as needed," she commented. "Special consideration should be given at the high school level to prepare students who want to go to work immediately, or who want to go into a special trade" For a number of years Mrs. Bletzinger has been active in the local American Field Service program and the American Association of University Women. She considers this a good background for board membership.

Mrs. J. C. Bletzinger

board where she has served as secretary, vice president and president During the nine years she has served on the properties, personnel and finance committees Mrs Gaertner says that she enjoys working with people and that the hours spent on board matters have been a learning process for her "I would like to have my record on the board be the sole spokesman as to why I am seeking my fourth term," she said. She has special interest in seeing the proposed new elementary school in operation and the high school facility expanded to meet growing needs

Chester L Makofski, 809 Tayco St., a candidate for one of the school board vacancies, said he is running for commissioner because he believes "the schoo lcurriculum should be kept in line with the increasing demands exerted on students

"This can be done by improving relations between the teachers, administration and school board members. The improved salary schedule recently accepted will put the board in a fine position for drafting the teachers we need to implement the board's curriculum guidelines I feel that my experience in business will be beneficial to the school district in administrating and initiating school board policy."

"Emphasis on the college bound students continues to be of major importance and we must move fast to bring basic subjects for non-college student into proper relationship and focus. Future planning in the curriculum area would be my number one priority. I also feel that there is need for more action to carry out the recommendations which have been made by the board and to the board in the past seven years by the Northeastern University and University of Wisconsin research and survey teams."

NE Teachers Told Red China Should Be Admitted to UN

Learning of H-Bomb's Power Could Avert War, Scientist Says

BY ALLAN EKVALL
Post Crescent Staff Writer

FOND DU LAC — Admitting Red China to the United Nations was advocated here Friday by Dr. Ralph E. Lapp, noted atomic scientist and one-time executive director of the Atomic Energy Research and Development Board of the U. S. Department of Defense.

Dr. Lapp was the principal speaker at the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association convention attended by some 5,000 teachers from 17 counties.

He reasoned that Red China should be in the United Nations so that the Chinese could see that America is not interested in the destruction of the world.

Dr Lapp spoke on "Explosion in the East: Red China as a Nuclear Power."

"Dirty Eggs"

"We can destroy China," Dr. Lapp said, by 200 bombers dropping their "dirty eggs" on 13 of China's 23 provinces.

Each B-52 bomber can carry two 25-megaton bombs, a bomb with the equivalent of 50 million tons of TNT that can spread lethal radioactivity over 250 square miles. Fatalities would be 80 per cent in these areas It would kill about half of China's 750 million population and render the soil radioactive

Dr Lapp cited how today's bomb was 1,250 times more powerful than the bomb dropped on Hiroshima. He cited that radio-strontium, or strontium-90 has a life span of 28 years and a potency that can inflict "agricultural defeat" on any nation in the world, icluding China.

Khrushchev Knew

The problem, he said, is that Mao Tse-tung does not understand this potential.

"Khrushchev understood it and Russia is no great strategic threat to us today. The scientists got to Khrushchev and educated him.

"Mao's scientists have not gotten to him," Dr. Lapp continued.

China is not an immediate threat, he said, because it does not have the technology to make the break-through.

But, he said, China has a very large quantity of alithium, which, he said, can make them very dangerous once they have developed it for nuclear warfare

Dr. Lapp pointed to the $13 billion appropriated by Congress recently for the war in Viet Nam "If China can bleed us this way, there is no necessity to engage us strategically."

Urged Destruction

The noted atomic scientist said the late President Kennedy had been urged to attack China and destroy its nuclear sites and that the late president was "mulling it over." He said he thought it highly incredible that the United States would do such a thing, adding that it is often the hard answer that wins out — the Defense Department over the State Department."

Dr Lapp said he was concerned because of Viet Nam. "The control of the bomb is in Peking, but the fuse is in Viet Nam." He said he hoped a war could be held off and that better communications established with China. He hoped it would be possible for China to see that nuclear war does nothing, not even for the Chinese.

"China in the United Nations could accomplish this" Dr. Lapp felt it could help establish the deterrent to a nuclear war.

"Even if it seems soft and long-ranged in nature, it is the only and ultimate way the world can come to peace," Dr. Lapp concluded.

Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association

Educational TV System Sought by Teacher Group

FOND DU LAC — A statewide educational television network is being sought by the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association.

The association's delegate assembly asked Friday that the Legislature consider providing the necessary cash to create such a network.

The association represents about 6,000 public school teachers in an 18-county area. The teachers also urged that school systems adopt a professional pay schedule based on a formula that would furnish increases sufficient to double a teacher's starting salary in 10 years.

The association chose James Larson of Sheboygan as president-elect Thomas Evans of Oshkosh was installed as president Friday.

The teachers elected Baylord, Unbehaun of Brillion as vice president. Named to the executive committee were Henry Kirhoff, Green Bay; Allen Linster, Plymouth; Leo Lang, Campbellsport, and Miss Edna Palecheck, Winneconne.

With Oshkosh chosen as the 1967 convention site, the delegates amended the constitution to include Manitowoc in the list of convention cities, its turn to come in 1969, following the 1968 convention at Sheboygan. Others in rotation are Appleton, Green Bay and Fond du Lac.

Edmund Kwaterski, president, estimated there were about 5,000 present at Friday's convention which included general sessions at Goodrich High School gymnasium, the Fond du Lac Theater and Roosevelt School Auditorium. Luncheons and sectional meetings were held in the afternoon at various churches, school clubs and restaurants.

A long-range planning committee was authorized to continue study of a proposal to divide the Northeastern Wisconsin Education Association into north and south divisions. Few cities in the association have convention facilities for the 7,600 members expected by 1967, Kwaterski said.

The committee was instructed to consider means of replacing NWEA officials who leave the district or who do not serve in their elected capacities and also to continue the study of the relationship between the association and the Wisconsin Education Association.

Outagamie's Voters To Pick Judge, Board

Contests in 20 of 47 Supervisory Districts; Lorge-Van Susteren Match Expected to Attract Voters

Twenty-one contests, including one for judge, will be featured in balloting on the county level Tuesday.

The other 20 contests are for county board seats which have been reduced in number from 55 to 47 under provisions of a new apportionment plan.

The judge match, featuring incumbent Urban P. Van Susteren and State Sen. Gerald Lorge of Bear Creek, is expected to draw more Outagamie County voters to the polls than would normally be the case in an election of this type.

Both are candidates for the probate judgeship and their respective committees have done a considerable amount of house-to-house campaigning in the past week and interest in the contest appears to be running high.

Radical Change

The most radical change in county board personnel in recent years will become effective with the first post-election board meeting, on April 19.

At least 20 incumbent supervisors will not return. Thirteen are not seeking re-election, two were defeated in primary races last month and in five districts incumbents will square off against each other, meaning five supervisors will be "bumped."

Sixty-six candidates will seek the 47 board posts Tuesday. The field was 74 prior to primaries in four districts.

Supervisory districts in which incumbents are not seeking election include 2, 6, 9, 18, 21, 26, 28, 31, 32, 33, 34 and 47. Incumbents are running unopposed in 20 districts.

Two Women

Two women are seeking board election Tuesday, and both are opposed.

Mrs Rose Schroeder, 224 E. Washington St., will oppose Supv. Henry A. Bartz, 550 N. Clark St., (Appleton 1) for the city's third district, while in the Dist. 9, Andrew J. Schiltz, 505 S. Locust St., a former Outagamie County sheriff, will be opposed by Mrs. Barbara Steger, 744 W. Spencer St., a housewife.

Districts where incumbents are vying for re-election are 36, where candidates are George Kroes (Town of Vandenbroek) and Urban J. Nelessen (Town of Ellington); 39, featuring supervisors Rudolph Spreeman (Town of Greenville) and Stanley Perkins (Town of Dale).

Other Contests

The other three districts where voters will chose between present supervisors are 43, Edward Peotter (Town of Osborn) and I.A. (Curly) Grunwaldt (Village of Black Creek); 45, Norman M. Helms (Town of Seymour) and Chris Roepcke (Town of Cicero); 46, Cecil Carpenter (Town of Maine) and Ervin W. Conradt (Town of Bovina.)

Only six contests for county board will take place in Appleton's 21 supervisory districts. Included are districts 3, Supv. Bartz and Mrs. Schroeder; 6, Charles E. Wussow and Robert F. Schmieder; 8, Allen Bubolz and Supv. Mark Catlin Jr.; 9, Schiltz and Mrs. Steger; 13, Supv. Glenn E. Pelton and Peter J. Goerl; 14. Supv. John G. Dietz and Howard F. Stumpf, and 18, Arnold R. Welch and Lawrence M. Thomas.

Other cities and villages included in supervisory districts having contests are Kimberly, Hortonville, New London's Third Ward, Black Creek, Shiocton and Bear Creek.

No Contests

None of Kaukauna's five districts have contests, and in four of the districts, incumbents are candidates. There are no contests in Little Chute, Combined Locks, or Seymour.

Although county judicial and supervisory balloting will highlight Tuesday's Outagamie election, voters also will indicate their desires on three referenda questions and will be asked to vote for a justice of the State Supreme Court. Thomas E. Fairchild is the lone state justice candidate.

There also are school board elections in some of the municipalities.

New Appleton Personnel Chief Begins Duties

Gerald Rusch Meets With Mayor, Other City Officials

Appleton's first city personnel director was on the job Friday.

Gerald Rusch, recently appointed to the newly created post by the common council, met with Mayor Clarence Mitchell and other officials at city hall.

Rusch, a native of Menasha, came here from Manitowoc where he had been employed in private industry. He has had experience in personnel management.

Temporary Office

Mitchell said Rusch would occupy a temporary office on the basement-level floor at the city hall. The offices of the finance director and health department are presently located on the same floor.

Mitchell said room would also have to be found for an office for the city's first full-time city attorney to be elected next week.

During the afternoon, Rusch attended a meeting at which personnel matters were discussed and an applicant was interviewed for the position of parking ramp custodian.

Okay of Indian Affairs Bureau Head Delayed

Senate Committee Lauds Bennett, But Criticizes Department

WASHINGTON (AP)— Senate Interior Committee members delayed action Friday on the nomination of a Wisconsin-born Indian to head the Bureau of Indian Affairs until they can present recommendations on Indian policy.

Robert L. Bennett; the first Indian named to head the bureau in nearly 100 years, drew praise personally from the committee, but the senators were sharply critical of the bureau itself.

Squalid Conditions

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., chairman of the committee, told Bennett that he found it amazing that so many of the nation's Indians still live in squalid conditions despite $1.5 billion in appropriations for their benefit since 1961.

Jackson noted the government has about 22,000 employes to look after 380,000 Indians. He questioned whether correct policies were being pursued.

There was no objection voiced to Bennett's appointment, but the committee decided to write a report setting forth what it wants done before voting on recommending Senate confirmation.

30-Year Man

Bennett has been with the bureau for 30 years and has been deputy commissioner since last October. He was born on the Oneida Reservation near Green Bay, Wis., in 1912.

President Johnson nominated Bennett to succeed former Wisconsin Lt. Gov. Philleo Nash who resigned as commissioner March 15.

Bennett testified that he planned to streamline the bureau to make it more responsive to Indian needs.

"The destructive effects of paternalism must be overcome," Bennett said.

Jackson said that with all of the government's education, social welfare and related programs, "It seems we should be able to do better by the Indians."

Eventual Goal

Bennett said the eventual goal is to make it possible to terminate federal supervision of the Indians, but added he could set no timetable for accomplishing this.

Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, said that Congress a dozen years ago listed a number of tribes that were ready to handle their own affairs, but "almost nothing has been done."

Testifying in support of Bennett's nomination were Sens. E. L. Bartlett, D-Alaska, and Karl E. Mundt, D-S.D., and Rep. Ben. Reifel, R-S.D., himself an Indian.

The charge followed a complaint filed by Seymour School officials.

County Judge Gustave J. Keller, after indicating that he was not going to fine the LaVassors, told them he was continuing the case on a week-to-week ba-is

If the child misses school without having a legitimate excuse, the Judge said, the parents will be brought back to court.

3-Year-Old Awaits Father Jailed on Bad Check Charge

William Lee Gilbertson, 30, DeForest, Wis., accompanied by his three-year-old son, when arraigned on a worthless check charge March 25, was sentenced to 20 days in the Outagamie County jail Friday.

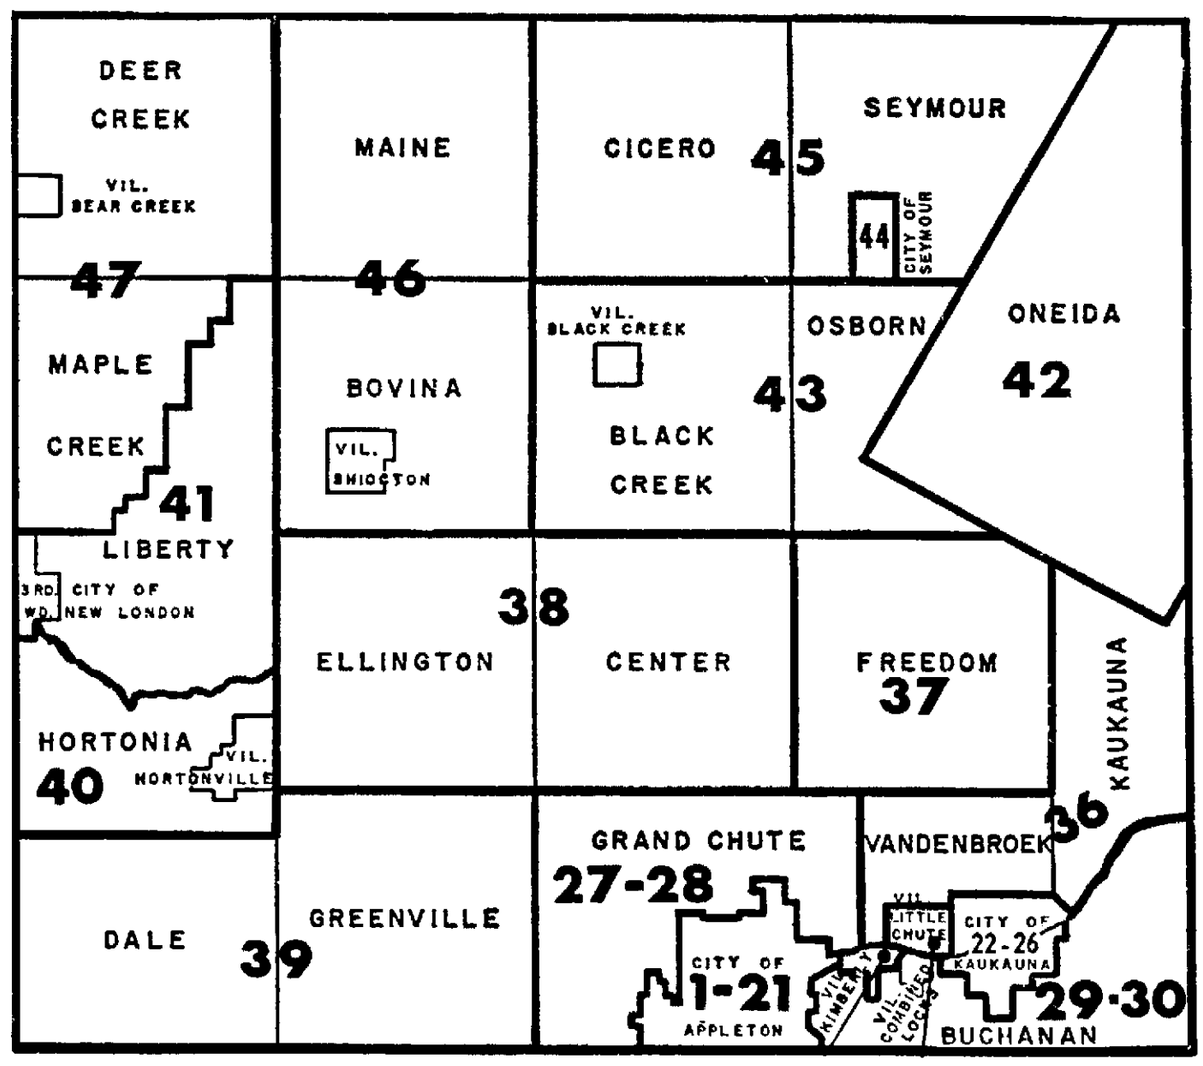

His son, William Michael, will continue to remain in a "temporary foster home" where he was placed following his father's court appearance last week. Arrangements for the boy's care were made by the Outagamie County Welfare Department.

Gilbertson had pleaded guilty of cashing a worthless $20 check on March 25 at an Appleton bank. He was arrested by Appleton detectives as he and his son were checking out of a hotel.

The DeForest man told the court when arraigned that the boy has been in his custody since the mother "left them" some time ago.

In imposing the jail sentence Friday, County Judge Gustave J. Keller said he was taking into consideration the report by Appleton authorities that Gilbertson has a second worthless check outstanding in the city.

The judge said that Dist. Atty. Nick F. Schaefer would make arrangements with a welfare department caseworker to meet with Gilbertson concerning the return of the child's custody to the father, upon completion of the jail term.

Outagamie Voters Will Elect their county board representatives Tuesday on the basis of this apportionment plan approved by supervisors last August. Officially starting with the April 19 board meeting, there will be 47 supervisors for the county's 102,000 residents. The old board included 55 supervisors. As can be seen on the above map, towns and villages have been combined under a single district in some cases, while in other cases, cities, villages and towns are split into multiple districts.

FVL High School

Annual Sacred Concert For Lenten Meditation

BY HENRY SIMON
Special to the Post Crescent

Students of Fox Valley Lutheran High School presented a Lenten meditation through music in their annual sacred concert Friday night

Helping 400 persons to prepare for the observance of Holy Week, which starts Sunday, were the FVL concert choir, concert band, and triple trio.

The concert featured various arrangements and presentations of the chorale, traditional Lutheran congregational hymn.

The 66-voice a cappella concert chorus began the program with four Lenten chorales.

Five-Part Motet

Fittingly climaxing the first portion of the program was a five-part motet by Johann Sebastian Bach, great Lutheran composer who restored the chorale to its proper place in congregational singing.

The words of Job, "I know that my Redeemer lives," were used in a fitting four-voice background for the familiar German chorale, "For Me to Live Is Jesus."

The concert band opened with transcriptions for symphonic band of organ works by Handel and Marcello.

Instrumentalists Present

The familiar "Abide With Me" and Mozart's "Ave Verum" were exceptionally well done as the 49 instrumentalists presented the melodies in their simple splendor.

"The Crusaders Overture" by Buchtel portrayed scenes in the struggle of medieval Christians to keep the scenes of the Passion open for visiting Christians

Concluding the first half of the program was the girls triple trio The nine choir members opened with two chorales, including an arrangement of "Lord Jesus Christ, With Us Abide" by Director Kurt Oswald.

Oswald Arrangement

An Oswald arrangement of the little-known hymn by American composer Fritz Reuter, "Be Thou Our Guide," was notable for its flowing medley.

The choristers used two chorale arrangements by F. Melius Christiansen and the Easter hymn of Melchoir Vulpius "Praise We the Lord," to finish the concert.

Noteworthy among the choir's final selections was the Russian hymn, "Bless the Lord." The arrangement by Ivanoff illustrated the rich harmony and full tones of the Russian church's liturgy, and the choir did it justice.

The concert will be rebroadcast over Radio Station WHBY, 1230 kc., at 2 p.m. Sunday. Gerhard F. Rolloff directed the choir and band, while Kurt F. Oswald conducted the triple trio.
